WOUNDED French veterans paraded in Paris recently, marching in silence, to the statue of Washington.

The parade was a protest against payment of one-half the French debts to this country—one-half, interest included, is the arrangement tentatively concluded between France and the United States.

It was a procession to sadden any heart, especially as a million and a half of the French wounded remained at home.

But that long line of wounded was not created by this country. When the French followed Napoleon III against Bismarck and lost Alsace-Lorraine, the foundation was laid for the great war. This country, certainly, did not start that war, or wound any of the cripples in that sad parade.

This writer and many other Americans would like to see the question of French payment postponed indefinitely, or at least until French wounds are healed and prosperity restored, and without interest, meanwhile. But France has no good reason for hating the United States; Italy, England and other countries have no reason.

They all hate this country because the United States lent billions to them all. And not one of them, with conditions reversed, would have lent any national money to us, or sent one man to our cause, unless he had come of his own will.

ISRAEL HECHT, dying in Philadelphia leaves $1,000,000 to buy coal for poor families. A man working hard all his life, then leaving all that he had earned to the poor, regardless of race or religion, sets a good example.

But $1,000,000, or half of it, invested in scientific work might solve the fuel problem, and make the poor practically independent of high coal prices.

Thirty millions, it has been said, would be enough to dig down into the earth and tap inexhaustible heat sources that would put an end to all coal digging.

In the long run the policy of John D. Rockefeller and of his son, John D., Jr., is the wise policy.

They spend their millions, not to cure individual cases of poverty or disease, but to make disease and poverty impossible. They have practically wiped out in North and South America the yellow fever that once killed tens of thousands a year. You couldn't die of yellow fever now if you tried. That is really intelligent philanthropy.

TODAY is the Mulharram, New Year of the Mohammedans, and the British ruling India look forward to fresh outbreaks of fighting and killing among Britain's Mohammedan and Hindu subjects that hate each other.

Fortunately for the British, the fighting Mohammedans are outnum-

Oh Dear! I Must Do The Dishes!

What woman hasn't at some time felt that she would rather go without dinner than have to look forward to washing the dishes?

It is not necessary to feel this way nowadays. The Bureau of Home Economics has studied this problem and worked out a method which is so simple and so quick that while dishwashing may still not be a joy, it at least is no longer a burden.

This information, together with a great many other labor-saving suggestions, is contained in a sixteen page booklet. This pamphlet is available to any reader of this newspaper who will send a two-cent stamp for return postage and will fill in the attached coupon. Be sure to write your name and address plainly.

Grant District Electors Vote Aug. 3 On School Bond Issue

Board of Education Submits $75,000 Proposal in Keeping With Offer of $30,000 Cash and Site.

In keeping with a conditional offer of $30,000 in cash and a free site, with a market value of $10,000, electors of Grant district, Hancock county will vote on a proposal to issue $75,000 in bonds for a new district high and elementary school, to be erected in Newell, at the primary election on Tuesday, August 3.

The offer of $25,000 cash by Homer Laughlin China company, $5,000 cash by W. E. Wells, secretary-treasurer of the company, and site by the North American Manufacturing company, is contingent upon approval of a bond issue to erect and equip the structure.

The Grant district board of education, to whom the offer was made about two months ago, has approved plans for a one-story, eight-room building. The site is part of the old Kenilworth Country club golf course, opposite the Dr. A. V. Bleininger home.

District electors, more than a year ago, rejected a $60,000 school bond issue.

Grant district schools, at present, are crowded. A two-room portable school and three rented rooms are being used for class purposes because of the congested condition of the Fourth street building.

Between 45 and 50 per cent of the district taxes is paid by corporations and public utilities. This means that the donors of the cash and the site will pay a large share toward the liquidation of the bonds, if the proposal is sanctioned.

The girl, who was charged with the illegal possession of intoxicants, drew a fine of $100 and costs. Both fines, totalling $511.60, were paid.

RADIO WILL BE EMPLOYED TO PURSUE RUM SMUGGLERS AS SOON AS EQUIPMENT CAN BE INSTALLED ON BOATS

Short Wave Length Direction Finders Will be Used on Coast Guard Craft.

WASHINGTON, July 13—Radio will be employed to pursue rum smugglers as soon as short wave length direction finders can be installed on coast guard boats, it was announced today.

Following exhaustive tests by the bureau of standards, a high frequency radio direction finder has been perfected for use on the rumchasers.

Commander S. S. Yeandle, aid to Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard, said that the new direction devices will be invaluable in navigation protection work and in keeping headquarters informed of the position of all government boats, as well as in law enforcement operations.

The direction finder determines the direction from which any radio signals come. Two vessels, some distance apart, can jointly determine the exact location of any ship transmitting radio signals through a mathematical calculation, even though atmospheric conditions prevents reading the message.

Officials said that although the rum rows, existing off the North Atlantic, Florida and gulf coasts, have been reduced materially from last year, the smugglers are becoming highly modernized.

Most of the rum runners maintain both high and low wave length sending apparatus and receivers to keep

BODY OF YOUNG VICTIM FOUND CRAMMED INTO BOXES AND BAG

Gruesome Discovery Made in Boston Suburb.

AUTOPSY ORDERED

One Receptacle Contains Girl's Head, Other Butchered Parts.

BOSTON, July 13.—Crammed into two cardboard boxes and a burlap bag, the dismembered body of a young woman, apparently in her early twenties, was discovered today near a cemetery at Mattapan, a suburb.

After a preliminary examination by Medical Examiner Leary, police expressed the belief that the girl had been slain. The body was taken to the city morgue for an autopsy.

Police Are Baffled.

The gruesome discovery was made by a Boston policeman who immediately telephoned headquarters and a squad of officers was dispatched to the scene to guard the boxes until Medical Examiner Leary arrived.

Police were unable to account for the finding of the boxes containing the pieces of the body in such a conspicuous place within the call of human voice of a thickly populated residental section.

The policeman made the discovery accidentally. Noticing the boxes, one at the edge of a curb and the other on a sidewalk, while patroling his beat, he casually walked over to inspect them, and a glance under the lids revealed the remains.

One of the corrugated boxes contained the woman's head and the other the butchered parts of the body.

HIT-SKIP CAR INJURES BOY

Paul Ruff, 11, Sustains Fracture of Right Ankle.

Paul Ruff, 11, son of Mrs. Lena Ruff, of Alliance, is in the City hospital suffering from a broken right ankle sustained at 9 o'clock this morning when struck by a "hit-skip" motorist on the Country Club road, north of Thompson Park.

The lad, who is spending the summer with his brother, Walter Ruff, and wife, 123 East Second street, was out driving with the Ruff family this morning. Near the Country Club, they parked the car to talk to a friend.

As young Ruff started to walk across the road, the unidentified motorist struck him, the force of the impact hurling him over an embankment. The boy was placed in the Ruff machine and brought back to his brother's home. Later he was removed to the hospital in the Sturgis ambulance. Dr. W. A. Hobbs attended him.

The car driven by the "hit-skip" motorist, according to Chief of Police Hugh McDermott who made an investigation, was a Nash roadster and carried license No. B-37086. Police have telegraphed to Columbus to obtain the name and address of the owner. Charges of fast and reckless driving will be filed against him.

The speeding car is said to have carried two men and two women.

Joseph Vandyne, 58, shoe cobbler at Tiltonville, Jefferson county, and a former resident of this city, is recovering in the Martin's Ferry hospital today from the effects of a bullet wound in the head, as a result of the accidental discharge of a revolver.

Vandyne was displaying an old model army automatic revolver in the window of his cobbling shop, when a boy, about 14 years of age, picked up the weapon and pulled the trigger.

Vandyne, according to relatives, left East Liverpool about five years ago. Elzie Vandyne, of Leonard street, and Samuel Vandyne, of La Croft, are brothers.

Grant District Electors Vote Aug. 3 On School Bond Issue

Board of Education Submits $75,000 Proposal in Keeping With Offer of $30,000 Cash and Site.

In keeping with a conditional offer of $30,000 in cash and a free site, with a market value of $10,000, electors of Grant district, Hancock county will vote on a proposal to issue $75,000 in bonds for a new district high and elementary school, to be erected in Newell, at the primary election on Tuesday, August 3.

The offer of $25,000 cash by Homer Laughlin China company, $5,000 cash by W. E. Wells, secretary-treasurer of the company, and site by the North American Manufacturing company, is contingent upon approval of a bond issue to erect and equip the structure.

The Grant district board of education, to whom the offer was made about two months ago, has approved plans for a one-story, eight-room building. The site is part of the old Kenilworth Country club golf course, opposite the Dr. A. V. Bleininger home.

District electors, more than a year ago, rejected a $60,000 school bond issue.

Grant district schools, at present, are crowded. A two-room portable school and three rented rooms are being used for class purposes because of the congested condition of the Fourth street building.

Between 45 and 50 per cent of the district taxes is paid by corporations and public utilities. This means that the donors of the cash and the site will pay a large share toward the liquidation of the bonds, if the proposal is sanctioned.

Youngstown Girl, 12, Slashed With Razor; Man Held

YOUNGSTOWN, July 13.—Lila Caro, 12, was in a precarious condition in a local hospital today as the result of being slashed across the throat with a razor by Ramon Avallo, according to police. Avallo was under arrest. He admitted, police stated, he cut the child for revenge because her father ejected him from their house recently. Police, however, declared that indications pointed to the criminal assault of the girl. The two families lived across the street from each other in the little town of Cillero, Lug county, Spain, before emigating to this country.

BODY OF YOUNG VICTIM FOUND CRAMMED INTO BOXES AND BAG

Gruesome Discovery Made in Boston Suburb.

AUTOPSY ORDERED

One Receptacle Contains Girl's Head, Other Butchered Parts.

BOSTON, July 13.—Crammed into two cardboard boxes and a burlap bag, the dismembered body of a young woman, apparently in her early twenties, was discovered today near a cemetery at Mattapan, a suburb.

After a preliminary examination by Medical Examiner Leary, police expressed the belief that the girl had been slain. The body was taken to the city morgue for an autopsy.

Police Are Baffled.

The gruesome discovery was made by a Boston policeman who immediately telephoned headquarters and a squad of officers was dispatched to the scene to guard the boxes until Medical Examiner Leary arrived.

Police were unable to account for the finding of the boxes containing the pieces of the body in such a conspicuous place within the call of human voice of a thickly populated residental section.

The policeman made the discovery accidentally. Noticing the boxes, one at the edge of a curb and the other on a sidewalk, while patroling his beat, he casually walked over to inspect them, and a glance under the lids revealed the remains.

One of the corrugated boxes contained the woman's head and the other the butchered parts of the body.

HIT-SKIP CAR INJURES BOY

Paul Ruff, 11, Sustains Fracture of Right Ankle.

Paul Ruff, 11, son of Mrs. Lena Ruff, of Alliance, is in the City hospital suffering from a broken right ankle sustained at 9 o'clock this morning when struck by a "hit-skip" motorist on the Country Club road, north of Thompson Park.

The lad, who is spending the summer with his brother, Walter Ruff, and wife, 123 East Second street, was out driving with the Ruff family this morning. Near the Country Club, they parked the car to talk to a friend.

As young Ruff started to walk across the road, the unidentified motorist struck him, the force of the impact hurling him over an embankment. The boy was placed in the Ruff machine and brought back to his brother's home. Later he was removed to the hospital in the Sturgis ambulance. Dr. W. A. Hobbs attended him.

The car driven by the "hit-skip" motorist, according to Chief of Police Hugh McDermott who made an investigation, was a Nash roadster and carried license No. B-37086. Police have telegraphed to Columbus to obtain the name and address of the owner. Charges of fast and reckless driving will be filed against him.

The speeding car is said to have carried two men and two women.

RADIO WILL BE EMPLOYED TO PURSUE RUM SMUGGLERS AS SOON AS EQUIPMENT CAN BE INSTALLED ON BOATS

Short Wave Length Direction Finders Will be Used on Coast Guard Craft.

WASHINGTON, July 13—Radio will be employed to pursue rum smugglers as soon as short wave length direction finders can be installed on coast guard boats, it was announced today.

Following exhaustive tests by the bureau of standards, a high frequency radio direction finder has been perfected for use on the rumchasers.

Commander S. S. Yeandle, aid to Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard, said that the new direction devices will be invaluable in navigation protection work and in keeping headquarters informed of the position of all government boats, as well as in law enforcement operations.

The direction finder determines the direction from which any radio signals come. Two vessels, some distance apart, can jointly determine the exact location of any ship transmitting radio signals through a mathematical calculation, even though atmospheric conditions prevents reading the message.

Officials said that although the rum rows, existing off the North Atlantic, Florida and gulf coasts, have been reduced materially from last year, the smugglers are becoming highly modernized.

Most of the rum runners maintain both high and low wave length sending apparatus and receivers to keep

P. R. R. MEN SET SAFETY RECORD

Campaign Speeds up Work on Wheeling Division.

A bright page in the history of safety on the Pennsylvania Railroad has been written by employes of the Wheeling division. Up to June 28, not an employe among the nearly 2,000 working on that division has been injured in 41 days. The last personal injury report was prepared on May 18.

During the month of May but three employes were injured and up until the 28th day of last month not a member of that vast organization was forced to lay off duty due to an accident.

The "No Acident Campaign" started in May as a part of the Safety First Movement not only resulted in having no "time lost accidents" in the M. of E. department, but speeded up the work in the different departments to the extent that several records were broken at Mingo Junction during the month.

The friendly rivalry evident among the different gangs has "pepped" up the men considerably, not only in the safety movement, but in the performance of their duties as well. This enthusiasm is not confined to Mingo Junction, but has spread as well to the other shops on the division, which include Bellaire, O; 4th street, Wheeling; Peninsula Shop, also at Wheeling, and Mill Run Shop at Zanesville, this latter being a narrow gauge road shop.

Since April 18, there has not been a "time lost" accident in the maintenance of Equipment department, while the last accident at the Car shop occurred on April 12.

While this remarkable safety record is being made, the employes are more than maintaining operating performance. At Mingo Junction enginehouse during May, with a total force of 149 men, there were 38 locomotives dispatched daily, which means that all minor repairs were handled to insure operation of these locomotives on their assigned runs.

Set Several Records.

There were 65 regular M. P. 162's or boiler washes during May as well as 31 intermediate wash outs. This latter being a record for Mingo Junction.

Another record of which Master Mechanic E. L. Bachman and his force are proud is that with a total of 2,226 locomotives dispatched and handled over the division during May, there were no passenger locomotive failures and but two freight locomotives failures. There have been no locomotive failures on the O. R. & W. portion of the division this year.

The record made in handling cars on the Wheeling Division is on a par with that of the locomotive end, for with a total of 82,233 cars handled over the division, there were but ten failures of which but five were charged to Mingo Junction. Forty-two thousand and eighty-five cars were handled through Mingo Junction yard alone, of which 1,116 were repaired on the shop track, being taken care of with a force of but twelve car gangs. This is an average of a trifle over forty cars per day, or two cars per day per man. This, of course, does not include the minor repairs made to cars out in the yard.

The next meeting of the club will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Zoellers. It will take the form of a cover dish party.

The Greater Hoover is as superior to the ordinary vacuum cleaner as an electric cleaner is superior to the broom. The reason for this can be summed up in the two words—"POSITIVE AGITATION."

You can't fail to understand the advantages of Positive Agitation when you see the dirt which The Greater Hoover beats out, sweeps up and suctions away.

But you must see The Greater Hoover to understand the difference between it and vacuum cleaners. You will realize then that all the essentials to thorough rug cleanliness are compactly and efficiently combined in only one cleaning device.

P. R. R. MEN SET SAFETY RECORD

Campaign Speeds up Work on Wheeling Division.

A bright page in the history of safety on the Pennsylvania Railroad has been written by employes of the Wheeling division. Up to June 28, not an employe among the nearly 2,000 working on that division has been injured in 41 days. The last personal injury report was prepared on May 18.

During the month of May but three employes were injured and up until the 28th day of last month not a member of that vast organization was forced to lay off duty due to an accident.

The "No Acident Campaign" started in May as a part of the Safety First Movement not only resulted in having no "time lost accidents" in the M. of E. department, but speeded up the work in the different departments to the extent that several records were broken at Mingo Junction during the month.

The friendly rivalry evident among the different gangs has "popped" up the men considerably, not only in the safety movement, but in the performance of their duties as well. This enthusiasm is not confined to Mingo Junction, but has spread as well to the other shops on the division, which include Bellaire, O; 4th street, Wheeling; Peninsula Shop, also at Wheeling, and Mill Run Shop at Zanesville, this latter being a narrow gauge road shop.

Since April 18, there has not been a "time lost" accident in the maintenance of Equipment department, while the last accident at the Car shop occurred on April 12.

While this remarkable safety record is being made, the employes are more than maintaining operating performance. At Mingo Junction enginehouse during May, with a total force of 149 men, there were 38 locomotives dispatched daily, which means that all minor repairs were handled to insure operation of these locomotives on their assigned runs.

Set Several Records.

There were 65 regular M. P. 162's or boiler washes during May as well as 31 intermediate wash outs. This latter being a record for Mingo Junction.

Another record of which Master Mechanic E. L. Bachman and his force are proud is that with a total of 2,226 locomotives dispatched and handled over the division during May, there were no passenger locomotive failures and but two freight locomotives failures. There have been no locomotive failures on the O. R. & W. portion of the division this year.

The record made in handling cars on the Wheeling Division is on a par with that of the locomotive end, for with a total of 82,238 cars handled over the division, there were but ten failures of which but five were charged to Mingo Junction. Forty-two thousand and eighty-five cars were handled through Mingo Junction yard alone, of which 1,116 were repaired on the shop track, being taken care of with a force of but twelve car gangs. This is an average of a trifle over forty cars per day, or two cars per day per man. This, of course, does not include the minor repairs made to cars out in the yard.

Illinois Man Invents New Auto Gas Saver

Walter Critchlow, 4633-K street, Wheaton, Ill., has patented a new gas saver that beats anything ever gotten out. With it on Fords show as high as 61 miles on a gallon. Other makes do equally well. This new invention saves gas and oil, makes a Ford start instantly in any weather and completely de-carbonizes the engine. Mr. Critchlow offers 1 free to quickly advertise. Write him for one. He also wants County and State Distributors who can make $500 to $2,500 per month.

Miss Fordyce was again medalist yesterday turning in a score of 85 in the 18-hole qualifying round.

Mrs. Becker startled the gallery by taking the third, 135-yard hole in one.

Tunney-Rickard Confer.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

TUESDAY, JULY 13, 1926.

Y. M. C. A. Life-Saving Course

A life-saving class for male swimmers over 17 years of age will be organized by the Young Men's Christian association tonight, when applicants who are able to swim one-quarter of a mile, demonstrate back and side strokes, perform front dive in good style and retrieve objects in water at least six feet deep, will be given instruction by an authorized Red Cross examiner.

Frank Manton, Playground supervisor, will be in charge of the class, while special instruction, too, will be given by Carl W. Robbins, life-saving field representative of the Red Cross, who will visit here next week.

Two drownings in the East Liverpool district within a month drive home the fact that summer, which ought to be a season of unalloyed health and pleasure, too often becomes a season of sorrow and trouble for persons who go at their warm weather activities with too much zeal and too little sense.

The Y. M. C. A. course will emphasize not only how to save persons from drowning but also ways to lessen the number of river, lake, creek and bathing pool victims. And the admonitions, don't go in swimming alone; don't go in swimming after a big meal or while over-heated, and don't do foolhardy stunts while swimming, or boating, which are impressed upon life-savers also apply to other bathers.

Swimmers who are qualified for this all-important work should enroll in the Y. M. C. A. life-saving class.

French Bitterness

The bitter feeling in France against America, based on our war debt policy, as shown by the recent parade of protest in Paris by the wounded French veterans, is hard for Americans to understand. Properly, the American ambassador entered a protest against it. Properly, too, the American volunteers who fought under the French flag refused to participate in a demonstration which seemed to be an insult to their country.

As Americans analyze the situation, the recent Mellon-Berenger arrangement for the settlement of the French debt to this country virtually cancelled nearly half of that debt. Of a principal totalling about $4,000,000,000, it called upon France to make a long series of payments whose cash value, at current interest rates, is only a little more than $2,000,000,000. Moreover, nearly all of this principal charged against France is not, as the French people insist, "war loans" made while France was fighting as our ally, but reconstruction loans made to France after the armistice.

"What does France want and expect?" Americans ask, in pained surprise.

Yet it is impossible not to sympathize with the French. Their troubles are many. Their franc is down to about two for a nickel, and steadily going lower. Nothing yet done to save it has any lasting effect. French business and industry are upset. Life for most of the French people is hard. French war debts are not being paid, as Frenchmen expected, out of German indemnities. A wronged nation, as victor, sees herself in worse plight than the beaten enemy that forced the war on her.

Perhaps it is too much to expect the French to get the American viewpoint. The next best thing is for prosperous Americans to try to grasp the French viewpoint, and instead of growing angry at the French attitude, regard it with patient sympathy.

Radio Chaos

The radio broadcasting business is in confusion, as a result of court decisions denying the authority of the federal department of commerce to control wave-lengths. Secretary Hoover, after long-continued efforts to bring order into this new industry, throws up his hands.

"Persons desiring to construct stations," he says, "must determine for themselves whether there will be wave-lengths available for their use without interference with other stations. They must proceed at their own risk."

About all the government can do is register the chosen wave-length. If any other broadcaster wants to break in and use it, apparently there is no recourse.

All this because congress, in the last session, failed to enact laws to handle the radio situation. Giving all due credit to a congress which has done much good work, it must be said that this was an inexcusable piece of negligence. There was an excellent measure before it, and plenty of opportunity to modify it if congress chose to do so.

For the present, the radio industry is placed on its honor. Its own welfare may dictate a general agreement to let Secretary Hoover continue running the system unofficially, until such time as he or some one else is given explicit authority. That should be as early as possible next winter.

Scandal in Poland: At a recent duel between two statesmen, one of them, instead of shooting the other, was so ungentlemanly as to tell him what he thought of him, then turn his back and walk off. The man whose life he saved will never forgive that.

If what Booth Tarkington says about skirts is true, any woman might make a good investment by saving her old ones to sell to a museum.

If the Democrats are going to hold to their two-thirds rule for nominations, they'd better call their next presidential convention pretty soon.

It Couldn't Have Possibly Happened Any Better— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 13. — Learned callings frequently touch low level in the metropolis. In the backwaters of life are many drifting intellectuals who could not cope with the commercial spirit of the day. They float to oblivion.

In a public park is a former professor of astronomy who nightly presides over a portable telescope through which the public may view the heavens at five cents a peek. He once held a chair in a mid-west university and now occupies a cot in an East Side attic.

One of the drab, colorless women who hawk birth control literature in the shadowy doorways of Broadway was an honor graduate at a great eastern college. Sudden family misfortune found her unfitted as a governess and a teacher.

A reporter several years ago discovered a man who had gained some distinction as an Egyptologist acting as outside barker for a wax museum on 14th street. His downfall, not always the rule in such cases, was brought about through drink.

A painter whose brush won him three prominent gallery exhibits reached a state of mental sterility that drove him to waiting in a cheap hash-house to provide necessities. That was six years ago and he is still a waiter.

One of the most unusual cases is that of a psychoanalist who attained enviable affluence delving for human complexes. His specialty was aiding those who feared failure. He is said to have guided many out of the rut of despair, and then faced failure himself. And could not cope with it.

The dignified silver-haired gentleman often seen behind the cashier's cage in all night restaurants are largely recruited from men of education who failed in life. Night work offers them opportunity to avoid many they knew in more affluent days.

It was refreshing to hear Hicksville, L. I., refused to change its name. The word "hick," as an opprobrium of yokelry, is said to have originated there—although many other states have Hicksville. As a matter of fact, one of the best known of cosmopolites came from Hicksville—Arthur Moss, of the Paris Times, and long a figure in the artistic life of Greenwich Village.

Cos Cob in Connecticut is another nearby New York village often the butt of the theatrical wheeze. It has a superb residential district and a metropolitan dress as sprightly as any suburban city. These small towns with trick names often have a way of confounding the kidders by turning out extraordinary notables. Sinclair Lewis was born in Sauk Center, Minn.; H. T. Webster, the cartoonist, in Tomahawk, Wis.; Esther Walker, of phonograph record fame, in Pee Wee Valley, Ky.; Edna Ferber, the novelist, in Appleton, Wis.; Ring Lardner, the humorist, in Niles, Mich.; Ray Long in Lebanon, Ind., and Homer Croy in Marysville, Mo.

In fact, at the moment I cannot think of a reigning celebrity who was born in New York, although they are probably numerous. Genius, after all, is not geographical, and New York can furnish them as well as Long Horn, Dakota.

One of the big bumps of resentment the small town carries for New York is that the metropolis laughs at it. This always struck me as silly and bigoted. Every small town I have ever seen has a pretty good time laughing at New York.

The small towns can let New York laugh—ho! ho!—and merely reply with a knowing shrug: "After all, most of you came from our towns."

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Harvesting the Wheat.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 13.—Aided and directed so far as possible by the free service of the United States Department of Labor, the annual invasion of the wheat-growing West by 100,000 temporary harvest hands is under full swing. These men, with the farmers and the more permanent help, are laying low the waving fields which raise the bread crop of the nation. Starting in Texas in June, the harvesting army has moved northward into Oklahoma and Kansas, is sending its advance guard into Nebraska, and has new fields to conquer when these have been won by the reaper and the binder.

Tempted by the lure of the outdoors, and the three and four dollar a day wages, all sorts and conditions of men make up the harvesting army. Some are regulars who have seen these lands before and will see them again, summer after summer. Others are college men on vacation, or city men seizing a chance to travel and see the West. Others are workers of the railroad and highway construction camps and laborers in other lines, who seek more permanent jobs in the winter, but hit the open trails when June rolls around and sleeping under the open sky is a joy and not a trouble.

Government and state supervision and assistance in finding jobs for men and men for jobs have improved the circumstances of the temporary harvest hand a good deal in recent years. He does not sleep in the open unless he wants to. Bunk houses or tents are supplied. He travels by railroad in a coach, unless he owns a flivver or prefers the chances of free rides on freight trains, or a lift along the highway by tourists. He gets more money and takes fewer chances than of old, but he is still essentially an adventurer, and he follows the crops northward and westward and gets over about as much territory as suits his fancy. The long hours and hard work of the harvest fields have not changed much. There are no easy jobs. It is a man's work, and it hardens the muscles and callouses the hands and browns the skin and produces an appetite the like of which is not found outside of a fighting army.

Supplying this army of labor to the wheat fields when it is needed and under fair conditions to the workers is no simple task. It is a task that must be done promptly, for wheat must be cut when it is ready, and the men must move to the place where the job is waiting. State employment offices and public offices of cities long since began to supplement and often displace the old private employment office which sold jobs at a dollar each to itinerant workers. Then the federal government came to realize that the wheat harvest is essentially an interstate proposition, and the department of labor established its nation-wide system of offices to gather and distribute timely and accurate information to harvest workers.

Central Office Maintained.

From its central office at 2023 Main street, Kansas City, Missouri, the Farm Labor Division of the United States employment service now directs seven permanent offices and several scores of temporary branches which are opened up at seasonal times in fourteen states, and closed when the crop in each state is harvested. From the Kansas City office go out timely bulletins setting forth wheat cutting dates in various sections, wages paid in each section, and the estimated number of men that will be needed from outside, together with the address of the nearest temporary office where free directions to the job will be available with a minimum of travel and lost time. The harvest worker pays his own way and takes his own chance, but the government does everything it can to tell him

HER FATHER'S SPECIALTY

In a public school in New York City, attended almost exclusively by foreign-born children, a teacher of one of the lower grades was endeavoring to compile facts pertaining to the family histories of her young charges for the official board.

To each child she gave a blank to be filled in with the proper answers. One ragged little girl gave lengthy consideration to this sentence:

"State your father's business."

Then in the space provided she wrote the one word:

"Outa."

The teacher, collecting the forms, struck this particular word and puzzled long to make out its meaning.

"Rachel," she asked at length, "what does 'outa' mean?"

"It means my pape is outa business," explained the child, "so I writes it down 'Outa.'"

"But doesn't he ever work?" inquired the teacher.

"No, ma'am" said the child sadly; "he don't never work—he strikes!"

Y. M. C. A. Life-Saving Course

A life-saving class for male swimmers over 17 years of age will be organized by the Young Men's Christian association tonight, when applicants who are able to swim one-quarter of a mile, demonstrate back and side strokes, perform front dive in good style and retrieve objects in water at least six feet deep, will be given instruction by an authorized Red Cross examiner.

Frank Manton, Playground supervisor, will be in charge of the class, while special instruction, too, will be given by Carl W. Robbins, life-saving field representative of the Red Cross, who will visit here next week.

Two drownings in the East Liverpool district within a month drive home the fact that summer, which ought to be a season of unalloyed health and pleasure, too often becomes a season of sorrow and trouble for persons who go at their warm weather activities with too much zeal and too little sense.

The Y. M. C. A. course will emphasize not only how to save persons from drowning but also ways to lessen the number of river, lake, creek and bathing pool victims. And the admonitions, don't go in swimming alone; don't go in swimming after a big meal or while over-heated, and don't do foolhardy stunts while swimming, or boating, which are impressed upon life-savers also apply to other bathers.

Swimmers who are qualified for this all-important work should enroll in the Y. M. C. A. life-saving class.

French Bitterness

The bitter feeling in France against America, based on our war debt policy, as shown by the recent parade of protest in Paris by the wounded French veterans, is hard for Americans to understand. Properly, the American ambassador entered a protest against it. Properly, too, the American volunteers who fought under the French flag refused to participate in a demonstration which seemed to be an insult to their country.

As Americans analyze the situation, the recent Mellon-Berenger arrangement for the settlement of the French debt to this country virtually cancelled nearly half of that debt. Of a principal totalling about $4,000,000,000, it called upon France to make a long series of payments whose cash value, at current interest rates, is only a little more than $2,000,000,000. Moreover, nearly all of this principal charged against France is not, as the French people insist, "war loans" made while France was fighting as our ally, but reconstruction loans made to France after the armistice.

"What does France want and expect?" Americans ask, in pained surprise.

Yet it is impossible not to sympathize with the French. Their troubles are many. Their franc is down to about two for a nickel, and steadily going lower. Nothing yet done to save it has any lasting effect. French business and industry are upset. Life for most of the French people is hard. French war debts are not being paid, as Frenchmen expected, out of German indemnities. A wronged nation, as victor, sees herself in worse plight than the beaten enemy that forced the war on her.

Perhaps it is too much to expect the French to get the American viewpoint. The next best thing is for prosperous Americans to try to grasp the French viewpoint, and instead of growing angry at the French attitude, regard it with patient sympathy.

Radio Chaos

The radio broadcasting business is in confusion, as a result of court decisions denying the authority of the federal department of commerce to control wave-lengths. Secretary Hoover, after long-continued efforts to bring order into this new industry, throws up his hands.

"Persons desiring to construct stations," he says, "must determine for themselves whether there will be wave-lengths available for their use without interference with other stations. They must proceed at their own risk."

About all the government can do is register the chosen wave-length. If any other broadcaster wants to break in and use it, apparently there is no recourse.

All this because congress, in the last session, failed to enact laws to handle the radio situation. Giving all due credit to a congress which has done much good work, it must be said that this was an inexcusable piece of negligence. There was an excellent measure before it, and plenty of opportunity to modify it if congress chose to do so.

For the present, the radio industry is placed on its honor. Its own welfare may dictate a general agreement to let Secretary Hoover continue running the system unofficially, until such time as he or some one else is given explicit authority. That should be as early as possible next winter.

Scandal in Poland: At a recent duel between two statesmen, one of them, instead of shooting the other, was so ungentlemanly as to tell him what he thought of him, then turn his back and walk off. The man whose life he saved will never forgive that.

If what Booth Tarkington says about skirts is true, any woman might make a good investment by saving her old ones to sell to a museum.

If the Democrats are going to hold to their two-thirds rule for nominations, they'd better call their next presidential convention pretty soon.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 13. — Learned callings frequently touch low level in the metropolis. In the backwaters of life are many drifting intellectuals who could not cope with the commercial spirit of the day. They float to oblivion.

In a public park is a former professor of astronomy who nightly presides over a portable telescope through which the public may view the heavens at five cents a peek. He once held a chair in a mid-west university and now occupies a cot in an East Side attic.

One of the drab, colorless women who hawk birth control literature in the shadowy doorways of Broadway was an honor graduate at a great eastern college. Sudden family misfortune found her unfitted as a governess and a teacher.

A reporter several years ago discovered a man who had gained some distinction as an Egyptologist acting as outside barker for a wax museum on 14th street. His downfall, not always the rule in such cases, was brought about through drink.

A painter whose brush won him three prominent gallery exhibits reached a state of mental sterility that drove him to waiting in a cheap hash-house to provide necessities. That was six years ago and he is still a waiter.

One of the most unusual cases is that of a psychoanalist who attained enviable affluence delving for human complexes. His specialty was aiding those who feared failure. He is said to have guided many out of the rut of despair, and then faced failure himself. And could not cope with it.

The dignified silver-haired gentleman often seen behind the cashier's cage in all night restaurants are largely recruited from men of education who failed in life. Night work offers them opportunity to avoid many they knew in more affluent days.

It was refreshing to hear Hicksville, L. I., refused to change its name. The word "hick," as an opprobrium of yokelry, is said to have originated there —although many other states have Hicksville. As a matter of fact, one of the best known of cosmopolites came from Hicksville—Arthur Moss, of the Paris Times, and long a figure in the artistic life of Greenwich Village.

Cos Cob in Connecticut is another nearby New York village often the butt of the theatrical wheeze. It has a superb residential district and a metropolitan dress as sprightly as any suburban city. These small towns with trick names often have a way of confounding the kidders by turning out extraordinary notables. Sinclair Lewis was born in Sauk Center, Minn.; H. T. RESUME PROBE OF KIDNAPING OF EVANGELIST

Mother of Aimee Semple McPherson Testifies.

CALL SERGEANT

Los Angeles Grand Jury Will Make no Report.

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—The county grand jury investigation into the mysterious disappearance and asserted kidnaping of Aimee Semple McPherson, famed woman evangelist, was resumed today after nearly a week's recess.

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the pastor of Angelus temple, was expected to be the first witness today. Mrs. McPherson herself, it was indicated, may also be recalled for cross-examination.

Another probable witness today was Sergeant L. M. Murchison, of the police department at Douglas, Ariz., just across the border from Agua Prieta, Mexico, where Mrs. McPherson appeared, claiming to have escaped from kidnapers after 35 days of captivity.

The belief that Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus Temple, had sought a rendezvous in Riverside, Calif., with Mrs. McPherson was abandoned today when Rev. Charles E. Jaynes, of Long Beach, declared he had an appointment with the evangelist and had inquired for her. Rev. Jaynes is pastor of the Riverside branch of Angelus Temple.

Authorities, however, were still hunting for Ormiston to testify before the grand jury.

Police were at a loss today to identify the man who took a shot at John J. Kershner late last night. Kershner is the author of a pamphlet, "The Disappearance of Aimee Semple McPherson." He has been repeatedly warned to remove his brochure from circulation.

Another development in the case today was the announcement of Superior Judge Keetch that the grand jury would make no report.

The public will not learn of any action taken by the grand jury unless an indictment is returned, the judge indicated.

Supreme Court Hits Cleveland Ban on Racing Bet News

COLUMBUS, July 12.—State Supreme Court Judge James E. Robinson today issued a temporary injunction restraining the city of Cleveland, Edwin Barry, public safety director, and Jacob Graul, chief of police of that city, from attempting to enforce against newspapers of general circulation the new city ordinance designed to prevent sale, display, or distribution of betting odds and selections on horse racing.

The injunction does not apply to newspapers, periodicals or publications devoted to, and chiefly made up of racing news, tips, odds or selections.

Issuance of the injunction was at the request of Henry Solomon, doing business as the Solomon News company, Cleveland.

It was stated at the office of the clerk of the state supreme court that the injunction will stand, at least, until the case can be reviewed by the full court. The case, it was stated, will not be heard before next fall.

So it is with all serious men. The real work they do is thinking and thinking does not stop until the heart stops, and it continues somewhere else when the thinking machine leaves the body.

However, vacation is a rest, for different parts of the brain think about different things. Change of scene means change of thought. The greatest brutality to human beings is inflicted by our industrial system, that condemns men to montony in occupation and surroundings.

Think, for instance, of those motor-subway system, now striking for betmen and switchmen in New York's ter pay, and destined probably to lose their fight. They must work seven days every week in dark tunnels, underground, to earn a miserable $38 for seven days work.

ERROR CHARGED IN TICE CASE

Widow Carries Her Damage Claim to Lisbon Court.

A petition in error was filed in common pleas court, Lisbon, today, by Mrs. Jennie Tice, Harker avenue widow, in her suit for $1,500 damages against Patrolmen Chester Smith and Herman Roth and ex-City Jail Turnkey William Cline.

Verdict for the defense was returned by a jury when the case was tried in municipal court here. Motion for a new trial was overruled by Municipal Judge Hanley.

The suit was the aftermath of a raid made by the three officers on December 5, last. The raid, it is alleged, was made with a faulty search warrant which was intended for another woman who previously resided in the same street. The plaintiff charged that her reputation had been injured by the raid.

in touch with the movement of the coast guard patrol as well as their own shore service. An elaborate system of intelligence has been developed by the smugglers, with stations and secret agents scattered from Canada to Cuba, along the American coasts and in the Bahams.

Radio inspectors are co-operating with the law enforcement arms of the government in attempting to discover the illicit sending stations. In spite of lack of control over broadcasting, officials said that if stations were detected conniving with smugglers legal proceedings would be taken, probably under the conspiracy laws. High frequency direction finders will make possible more prompt relief of vessels in distress and should mean the saving of many lives, according to coast guard officers.

Identify 10 Bodies

day from the scene of the Lake Denmark arsenal explosion.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Robinson departed from Washington this morning in an airplane to fly over the devastated area and make a survey.

Fire Dies Down.

DOVER, N. J., July 13—Five hundred marines from Quantico, Va., today entered the smouldering, shell strewn inferno that was once the naval ammunitions depot at Lake Denmark. They entered not long after daybreak and bore orders to rake the treacherous debris for the bodies of the nine marines still accounted as missing.

Official announcements stated that the fire had died down and that all danger of the flames reaching and setting off the mighty army magazine, where $35,000,000 worth of explosives are stored, had passed. Danger to the marines who deployed through the smoking ruins was not minimized, however. Exploding shells beat an irregular tattoo and all members of the battalions were warned to be extremely cautious.

The two hundred odd marines who came here from Quantico yesterday were augmented by 300 others who arrived and went to work early today.

More Bodies Recovered.

Nineteen bodies have been recovered. Seventeen were brought out yesterday. They had died as they fought the fire which produced the explosion.

Lieut. Robert Ginsburgh, serving as spokesman for Captain J. M. Enochs, senior naval officer present, issued a statement as follows:

"Capt. Enochs reports that the fires are still burning in the navy munition depot and apparently they are slowly dying out and do not extend as far northward as they did yesterday afternoon.

"While some minor single shell explosions may still possibly occur, it is confidently felt that the major explosions are all over, that there is no further danger to be expected from any explosion. There is little wind and the explosion should not spread."

Relief measures in the area stricken by the explosion have now reached the point of maximum efficiency. The number of refugees in Dover and other towns out of the zone swept by exploding shells is estimated at 3,000

Red Cross Directs Relief.

Assistance is being given by the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the American Legion, the Elks and other civic organizations. Hundreds have been fed by the Legion. The Red Cross this morning assumed direction of all relief work.

Barred from their homes, miners and their families from Mount Hope and Hibernia are being quartered with friends and other residents of Dover and Mount Morris.

Scores of miners, followed by their wives and children trooped to Mount Hope eager to return to their shattered homes. They were met by sentries.

While the women and youngsters waited at the barrier, the men were escorted by marines to their cottages for clothing and other articles left behind in their mad flight following the outbreak of the explosions Saturday.

Wilbur Orders Inquiry.

A formal naval inquiry into the disaster has been ordered by Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy. The court of inquiry is expected to convene here tomorrow. While it has been definitely established that the first explosion was caused by a bolt of lightning, there are a number of matters that the court will have to go into and settle.

Rear Admiral E. A. Campbell, judge advocate of the navy, will preside. The court will take up, among other things, the question of damage to the army and navy arsenals and civilian property in towns adjoining Lake Denmark.

It is expected that suits aggregating millions of dollars will be filed against the government by citizens whose property was damaged.

Secretary Wilbur said he would file a report with Admiral Campbell before the court of inquiry begins. He declared that every precaution was taken to prevent the destruction by lightning of the arsenal. Photographs were shown to the secretary by navy officers, indicating that lightning rods were in use on the arsenal buildings.

From the description given him of the postures in which the bodies were found, Secretary Wilbur said he was confident every marine had died as he raced toward the fire in response to the fire call.

The question of removing the naval arsenal to an isolated section of the country will be taken up shortly, Secretary Wilbur revealed.

Many of the citizens of communities in this region strongly oppose removal of the ammunition stations. They hold that the prosperity of the region depends largely on the arsenals.

Message of Condolence.

WHITE PINES CAMP, N. Y., July 13.—Declaring that the New Jersey arsenal catastrophe showed clearly that "devotion to duty and heroism are not confined to the battlefield," President Coolidge today issued a statement of condolence to the widows and families of those who died in the explosion.

"The destruction of the naval ammunition depot at Lake Denmark, New Jersey, is a most deplorable catastrophe," he said. "I extend my sincere sympathy and that of the country to the relatives of those who died and to those who have been injured. The details received by me emphasize clearly that devotion to duty and heroism are not confined to the battlefield. The officers and men killed and wounded were serving their country in a hazardous post and deserve all the honor that can be paid.

"All who so promptly and with great self sacrifice responded to the calls for relief are to be commended and deserve the grateful thanks of us all."

Oppose Removal of Arsenals.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The army and navy prepared today to weather a bombardment for the removal of arsenals from the vicinity of large cities.

With Senator Edge, of New Jersey, and Mayor Jackson, of Baltimore, already making demands, army and navy officers were quick to reassure those who have pictured great cities being toppled by blasts.

Although explosives costing hundreds of millions of dollars are stored in big munitions depots, a recurrence of the Lake Denmark disaster was declared extremely unlikely.

"It never happened before in peacetime and may never happen again," declared Capt. Holden C. Richardson, assistant chief of the navy's bureau of ordinance. "There have been explosions of a single magazine, but none just like Saturday's disaster," he said.

"We have to store the navy's munitions near the coast," he added. "In every instance, precautions have been taken against disaster. Isolated sections were chosen for the depots and close inspections are made."

"Congress alone has authority to designate new sites and authorize removels," said Secretary of War Davis.

Derwin Dimmerling Badly Burned by July 4 "Fountain"

Derwin, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dimmerling, of College street, is suffering from the effects of a badly burned left hand and arm as the result of the unexpected explosion of a pyrotechnical "fountain" near his home shortly after noon.

Young Derwin and several other lads were playing with the fountain, which had been left over from their July 4 celebration. Previously they had been unable to explode it.

Derwin, it is said, was holding it in his hand when fire shot out from the end. He was taken to the office of Dr. Jean Sloan for medical attention.

River Gravel Company Purchases Famous Island Near Wheeling

MARTINS FERRY — Wheeling's Coney Island, situated in the Ohio river north of here, is to be removed. The Ohio River Gravel company, of Parkersburg, has purchased the island and put dredges to work reclaiming sand and gravel from the southern point of the island.

W. P. Gwathmey, general manager of the company, said it might be years before the island is entirely gone. His company has purchased several small islands in anticipation of a possible federal tax on dredging from the bed of the river. By this plan, it will be possible to avoid any such tax and yet not cut off the source of the company's product.

Coney Island was the name given what is known as First Sister island when an amusement park was operated there a score of years ago. The park was abandoned when the 1913 flood removed the last vestige of buildings. Since that time it has been cultivated by residents of the mainland.

It is well known to river pilots by reason of gas from an abandoned well, drilled during the Warwood, W. Va., oil and gas boom several years ago, burning much of the time and furnishing a natural beacon for the guidance of river navigators.

President Deters His Trip In Order to Greet Al Smith

White House Precedent is Shattered by Arrangements for Luncheon at White Pines Camp, N. Y.

WHITE PINES CAMP, N. Y., July 13.—A White House precedent was shattered here today when it was announced that President Coolidge has deferred his trip to Plymouth in order to receive Governor Al Smith as a luncheon guest on Friday.

After Gov. Smith had announced that he would visit the president and officially welcome him to the state, Mr. Coolidge sent an invitation to the governor to have luncheon with him either Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday this week. Gov. Smith was unable to appear on any of those three days and suggested Friday. The president had planned to leave for Plymouth Thursday but now it appears he will not go until Saturday.

An invitation to a White House luncheon always has been regarded as virtually mandatory.

RESUME PROBE OF KIDNAPING OF EVANGELIST

Mother of Aimee Semple McPherson Testifies.

CALL SERGEANT

Los Angeles Grand Jury Will Make no Report.

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—The county grand jury investigation into the mysterious disappearance and asserted kidnaping of Aimee Semple McPherson, famed woman evangelist, was resumed today after nearly a week's recess.

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the pastor of Angelus temple, was expected to be the first witness today. Mrs. McPherson herself, it was indicated, may also be recalled for cross-examination.

Another probable witness today was Sergeant L. M. Murchison, of the police department at Douglas, Ariz., just across the border from Agua Prieta, Mexico, where Mrs. McPherson appeared, claiming to have escaped from kidnapers after 35 days of captivity.

The belief that Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus Temple, had sought a rendezvous in Riverside, Calif., with Mrs. McPherson was abandoned today when Rev. Charles E. Jaynes, of Long Beach, declared he had an appointment with the evangelist and had inquired for her. Rev. Jaynes is pastor of the Riverside branch of Angelus Temple.

Authorities, however, were still hunting for Ormiston to testify before the grand jury.

Police were at a loss today to identify the man who took a shot at John J. Kershner late last night. Kershner is the author of a pamphlet, "The Disappearance of Aimee Semple McPherson." He has been repeatedly warned to remove his brochure from circulation.

Another development in the case today was the announcement of Superior Judge Keetch that the grand jury would make no report.

The public will not learn of any action taken by the grand jury unless an indictment is returned, the judge indicated.

Supreme Court Hits Cleveland Ban on Racing Bet News

COLUMBUS, July 12.—State Supreme Court Judge James E. Robinson today issued a temporary injunction restraining the city of Cleveland, Edwin Barry, public safety director, and Jacob Graul, chief of police of that city, from attempting to enforce against newspapers of general circulation the new city ordinance designed to prevent sale, display, or distribution of betting odds and selections on horse racing.

The injunction does not apply to newspapers, periodicals or publications devoted to, and chiefly made up of racing news, tips, odds or selections.

Issuance of the injunction was at the request of Henry Solomon, doing business as the Solomon News company, Cleveland.

It was stated at the office of the clerk of the state supreme court that the injunction will stand, at least, until the case can be reviewed by the full court. The case, it was stated, will not be heard before next fall.

bered four to one by the powerful Hindus and this for the time makes British rule in India safe.

It would be otherwise if the Mohammedans knew enough to celebrate their Muharram by making friends with the Hindus and uniting to rule India for those that live in India. Religious superstition, which is another name for ignorance, makes that impossible.

THE president in his forest camp works hard, as many hours as in the White House. He tells reporters that his vacation is merely "a change of scene."

So it is with all serious men. The real work they do is thinking and thinking does not stop until the heart stops, and it continues somewhere else when the thinking machine leaves the body.

However, vacation is a rest, for different parts of the brain think about different things. Change of scene means change of thought. The greatest brutality to human beings is inflicted by our industrial system, that condemns men to montony in occupation and surroundings.

Think, for instance, of those motor-subway system, now striking for betmen and switchmen in New York's ter pay, and destined probably to lose their fight. They must work seven days every week in dark tunnels, underground, to earn a miserable $38 for seven days work.

And their employers calmly tell you they can't afford to pay more. They don't tell you they could easily afford to pay double if previous management had not stolen scores of millions from the stockholders and looted the operating corporation.

ERROR CHARGED IN TICE CASE

Widow Carries Her Damage Claim to Lisbon Court.

A petition in error was filed in common pleas court, Lisbon, today, by Mrs. Jennie Tice, Harker avenue widow, in her suit for $1,500 damages against Patrolmen Chester Smith and Herman Roth and ex-City Jail Turnkey William Cline.

Verdict for the defense was returned by a jury when the case was tried in municipal court here. Motion for a new trial was overruled by Municipal Judge Hanley.

The suit was the aftermath of a raid made by the three officers on December 5, last. The raid, it is alleged, was made with a faulty search warrant which was intended for another woman who previously resided in the same street. The plaintiff charged that her reputation had been injured by the raid.

in touch with the movement of the coast guard patrol as well as their own shore service. An elaborate system of intelligence has been developed by the smugglers, with stations and secret agents scattered from Canada to Cuba, along the American coasts and in the Bahams.

Radio inspectors are co-operating with the law enforcement arms of the government in attempting to discover the illicit sending stations. In spite of lack of control over broadcasting, officials said that if stations were detected conniving with smugglers legal proceedings would be taken, probably under the conspiracy laws. High frequency direction finders will make possible more prompt relief of vessels in distress and should mean the saving of many lives, according to coast guard officers.

Truck Driver Dies of Injuries.

COLUMBUS, July 13.—Injuries suffered four days ago in a head-on crash between his truck and an automobile resulted in the death of Harry Smith, 42, here early today.

Alfred had refused food, however. He was adjudged insane.

Identify 10 Bodies

day from the scene of the Lake Denmark arsenal explosion.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Robinson departed from Washington this morning in an airplane to fly over the devastated area and make a survey.

Fire Dies Down.

DOVER, N. J., July 13—Five hundred marines from Quantico, Va., today entered the smouldering, shell strewn inferno that was once the naval ammunitions depot at Lake Denmark. They entered not long after daybreak and bore orders to rake the treacherous debris for the bodies of the nine marines still accounted as missing.

Official announcements stated that the fire had died down and that all danger of the flames reaching and setting off the mighty army magazine, where $35,000,000 worth of explosives are stored, had passed. Danger to the marines who deployed through the smoking ruins was not minimized, however. Exploding shells beat an irregular tattoo and all members of the battalions were warned to be extremely cautious.

The two hundred odd marines who came here from Quantico yesterday were augmented by 300 others who arrived and went to work early today.

More Bodies Recovered.

Nineteen bodies have been recovered. Seventeen were brought out yesterday. They had died as they fought the fire which produced the explosion.

Lieut. Robert Ginsburgh, serving as spokesman for Captain J. M. Enochs, senior naval officer present, issued a statement as follows:

"Capt. Enochs reports that the fires are still burning in the navy munition depot and apparently they are slowly dying out and do not extend as far northward as they did yesterday afternoon.

"While some minor single shell explosions may still possibly occur, it is confidently felt that the major explosions are all over, that there is no further danger to be expected from any explosion. There is little wind and the explosion should not spread."

Relief measures in the area stricken by the explosion have now reached the point of maximum efficiency. The number of refugees in Dover and other towns out of the zone swept by exploding shells is estimated at 3,000

Red Cross Directs Relief.

Assistance is being given by the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the American Legion, the Elks and other civic organizations. Hundreds have been fed by the Legion. The Red Cross this morning assumed direction of all relief work.

Barred from their homes, miners and their families from Mount Hope and Hibernia are being quartered with friends and other residents of Dover and Mount Morris.

Scores of miners, followed by their wives and children trooped to Mount Hope eager to return to their shattered homes. They were met by sentries.

While the women and youngsters waited at the barrier, the men were escorted by marines to their cottages for clothing and other articles left behind in their mad flight following the outbreak of the explosions Saturday.

Wilbur Orders Inquiry.

A formal naval inquiry into the disaster has been ordered by Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy. The court of inquiry is expected to convene here tomorrow. While it has been definitely established that the first explosion was caused by a bolt of lightning, there are a number of matters that the court will have to go into and settle.

Rear Admiral E. A. Campbell, judge advocate of the navy, will preside. The court will take up, among other things, the question of damage to the army and navy arsenals and civilian property in towns adjoining Lake Denmark.

It is expected that suits aggregating millions of dollars will be filed against the government by citizens whose property was damaged.

Secretary Wilbur said he would file a report with Admiral Campbell before the court of inquiry begins. He declared that every precaution was taken to prevent the destruction by lightning of the arsenal. Photographs were shown to the secretary by navy officers, indicating that lightning rods were in use on the arsenal buildings.

From the description given him of the postures in which the bodies were found, Secretary Wilbur said he was confident every marine had died as he raced toward the fire in response to the fire call.

The question of removing the naval arsenal to an isolated section of the country will be taken up shortly, Secretary Wilbur revealed.

Many of the citizens of communities in this region strongly oppose removal of the ammunition stations. They hold that the prosperity of the region depends largely on the arsenals.

Message of Condolence.

WHITE PINES CAMP, N. Y., July 13.—Declaring that the New Jersey arsenal catastrophe showed clearly that "devotion to duty and heroism are not confined to the battlefield," President Coolidge today issued a statement of condolence to the widows and families of those who died in the explosion.

"The destruction of the naval ammunition depot at Lake Denmark, New Jersey, is a most deplorable catastrophe," he said. "I extend my sincere sympathy and that of the country to the relatives of those who died and to those who have been injured. The details received by me emphasize clearly that devotion to duty and heroism are not confined to the battlefield. The officers and men killed and wounded were serving their country in a hazardous post and deserve all the honor that can be paid.

"All who so promptly and with great self sacrifice responded to the calls for relief are to be commended and deserve the grateful thanks of us all."

Oppose Removal of Arsenals.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The army and navy prepared today to weather a bombardment for the removal of arsenals from the vicinity of large cities.

With Senator Edge, of New Jersey, and Mayor Jackson, of Baltimore, already making demands, army and navy officers were quick to reassure those who have pictured great cities being toppled by blasts.

Although explosives costing hundreds of millions of dollars are stored in big munitions depots, a recurrence of the Lake Denmark disaster was declared extremely unlikely.

"It never happened before in peacetime and may never happen again," declared Capt. Holden C. Richardson, assistant chief of the navy's bureau of ordinance. "There have been explosions of a single magazine, but none just like Saturday's disaster," he said.

"We have to store the navy's munitions near the coast," he added. "In every instance, precautions have been taken against disaster. Isolated sections were chosen for the depots and close inspections are made."

"Congress alone has authority to designate new sites and authorize removels," said Secretary of War Davis.

Derwin Dimmerling Badly Burned by July 4 "Fountain"

Derwin, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dimmerling, of College street, is suffering from the effects of a badly burned left hand and arm as the result of the unexpected explosion of a pyrotechnical "fountain" near his home shortly after noon.

Young Derwin and several other lads were playing with the fountain, which had been left over from their July 4 celebration. Previously they had been unable to explode it.

Derwin, it is said, was holding it in his hand when fire shot out from the end. He was taken to the office of Dr. Jean Sloan for medical attention.

River Gravel Company Purchases Famous Island Near Wheeling

MARTINS FERRY — Wheeling's Coney Island, situated in the Ohio river north of here, is to be removed. The Ohio River Gravel company, of Parkersburg, has purchased the island and put dredges to work reclaiming sand and gravel from the southern point of the island.

W. P. Gwathmey, general manager of the company, said it might be years before the island is entirely gone. His company has purchased several small islands in anticipation of a possible federal tax on dredging from the bed of the river. By this plan, it will be possible to avoid any such tax and yet not cut off the source of the company's product.

Coney Island was the name given what is known as First Sister island when an amusement park was operated there a score of years ago. The park was abandoned when the 1913 flood removed the last vestige of buildings. Since that time it has been cultivated by residents of the mainland.

It is well known to river pilots by reason of gas from an abandoned well, drilled during the Warwood, W. Va., oil and gas boom several years ago, burning much of the time and furnishing a natural beacon for the guidance of river navigators.

President Defers His Trip In Order to Greet Al Smith

White House Precedent is Shattered by Arrangements for Luncheon at White Pines Camp, N. Y.

WHITE PINES CAMP, N. Y., July 13.—A White House precedent was shattered here today when it was announced that President Coolidge has deferred his trip to Plymouth in order to receive Governor Al Smith as a luncheon guest on Friday.

After Gov. Smith had announced that he would visit the president and officially welcome him to the state, Mr. Coolidge sent an invitation to the governor to have luncheon with him either Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday this week. Gov. Smith was unable to appear on any of those three days and suggested Friday. The president had planned to leave for Plymouth Thursday but now it appears he will not go until Saturday.

An invitation to a White House luncheon always has been regarded as virtually mandatory.

COSSACK CIRCUS ADDED TO 101 RANCH WILD WEST PERFORMANCES

In presenting again 101 Ranch Real Wild West, Miller Brothers decided to assemble the biggest show of its kind ever seen and place in its performance everything known to them and their advisers that might contribute to its thrilling appeal. Hence, when 101 Ranch comes to East Liverpool on Saturday, July 17, at the Columbian park circus grounds, you are promised the fastest moving and most varied program that brains, money, experience and determination can conceive. Six hundred horses, buffalo, oxen, with the famous longhorns milling, add to the splendor of America's true romance lived again before your eyes. The world's largest and most colorful street parade starts off 101 Ranch wild west day with a whoop that will set the town holiday mad. Elephants and camels add to the spectacles.

The greatest feature ever brought to America—the Russian Cossack circus—will dazzle the country. This entire show, with the Czar's Imperial Cossack band of 50 pieces, its mounted choir and acrobats, its dancers and its dashing squadrons of Cossack veterans, the world's most thrilling riders—all were brought to America by Col. Joe C. Miller this March. The Cossacks are led by an Imperial General and a Prince of the Imperial line. The Cossacks stirred all London for weeks at the Olympia. They are a complete show in themselves.

CABLE, ILL., ONCE COMING CITY, NOW OFFICIALLY TAKEN OFF MAP

CABLE, Ill.—This village, pictured by early residents as a great city of the future, is now officially off the map.

Voters at a recent special election unanimously approved a proposition to abandon the village charter and to cease functinoning as a corporation, feeling that the tax for maintaining a village organization was too burdensome.

When the town began to boom in 1887 with the opening of a coal mine its residents peered into the future and saw Cable as one of the great metropolises. Within two years a charter was obtained and the settlement named in honor of P. L. and R. R. Cable, both of whom were prominent in the affairs of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad.

By 1890, census takes listed the village's population at 1,267. The veins of coal, however, began to thin out and Cable began to shrink. When the mine shut down Cable became a flag station.

The town now is practically deserted and it is believed that in a very short time the last house and the last store building will be emptied and corn will wave over what once was seen as a future Pittsburgh, Chicago or New York.

"NOT SO LONG AGO" FILM HIT

Betty Bronson and Ricardo Cortez at Ceramic.

Broadway, a wide and bustling street which, from the Battery Gardens to its opposite termination in a country road, may be four miles long—."

That was the description given of Broadway by Charles Dickens, the famous novelist, when he visited New York City about the middle of the last century.

And that is the Broadway which with its surrounding city, is shown in the Sidney Olcott-Paramount production, "Not So Long Ago," which is the feature at the Ceramic theatre. Olcott, who made "Little Old New York," "The Humming Bird," etc., has recreated the period marvelously well according to reports.

Betty Bronson, of "Peter Pan" fame, is a whole picture in herself in the quaint costumes of the time. Ricardo Cortez is co-featured with Betty in the production which was adapted for the screen by Violet Clark from the Broadway stage success of the same name by Arthur Richman.

Wealthy Town.

The streets of New York at the time were filled with omnibuses, tilburys, hackney cabs, gigs and phaetons. One thing that deeply impressed Dickens was the apparent wealth of the people, especially the women. No other city in the world could boast of so many expensively dressed women, "gorgeous in brightly colored silks, satins and ermine-lined cloaks, costly furs, ostrich feathers, and pink and blue rohan bonnets." They were escorted by men in Byron collars and tasselled cloaks, with whiskers under their chins.

As Mr. Dickens approached New York from the East River he saw crowded buildings, a forest of ships' masts with flapping sails and waving flags, and many steam ferry boats. The "forest of masts" would be strange today, but those were the days of the great Liverpool packets and China fleets, and Cherry street dance halls were the resorts of the "packet rats" and "limejuicers." The spires have vanished among the skyscrapers, and the only things left of these days are the ferries.

It must have been a lively town, what with the newsboys, the horns of the oystermen, the chimney sweeps and their racuous cries, the locksmiths, the peddlers with bells on their carts.

Parades Galore.

They used to have even more parades then than now. The target companies used to march—the Guards, the Fencibles, the Sharp-shooters—with all the company's plated ware carried on a pole at the head of the line— as Meade Minnigerode tells in "The Fabulous Forties."

New York was the metropolis of America then as it is today, with more than 300,000 people. Broadway was the most fashionable street in the country, with Lombardy poplars in front of the houses, and the pillars upholding the marquees in front of the stores covered with placards advertising the wares within.

She Stars in "Miss Nobody" at the American.

An adventure in contentment is "Miss Nobody," which had a premiere last night at the American theatre.

It brings to those who see it not only a sense of the lure of vagabondage but imparts as well some understanding of the cloistered peace of soul that comes to that clan in their state of economic aparteness.

Duke, Bertie, Happy, Harmony and, not the least by any means, the Kid, populate in a major sense this really unique photodrama of the season. The Kid is none other than Anna Q. Nilsson, reverting for the first time since her remarkable performance in "Ponjola" to male attire. She, in common with the others named, portrays a happy-go-lucky knight of the road.

Disdaining the services of a "double" in this play of hobo life, Miss Nilsson actually "rides the rods" on a speeding freight train, paces the brakeman's runway on the top of careeing cars, perches on the bounding "bumpers" and undergoes the rigors of the brakeman's pet device for dislodging tramps clinging to the chassis of cars—the method known as "hanging a coupling pin."

Never in the knowledge of the critic has a star taken susch personal risks as are faced by the courageous Miss Nilsson in this production for the sake of realism, nor is her daring in vain, for these exploits, as photographed either from the top of the moving train or from platforms projecting from the side of the cars, form some of the most graphic film ever exhibited.

"Miss Nobody," aside from ite tensely dramatic situations, abounds in rich humor and is most capably interpreted by a cast at the head of which is a coterie of featured supporting artists comprised of Walter Pidgeon, screen "find" of the year; Louise Fazenda, Mitchell Lewis, Clyde Cook and Arthur Stone.

Chester Launches Second Half Drive With Win Over Newell

Mike Cebula, Back On Hilltop, Allows Laughlin Two Hits

Riley Nine Has 10 to 1 Lead When Contest is Stopped at End of Four and a Half Innings by Rain; Southpaw Suder is Hammered Hard.

DEFEATED for the first half championship of the City circuit by Laughlin only a few days ago Chester came back last night and lopped off the title holders in the initial clash of the final lap, at Smith Field. The score was decisive, 10 to 1.

Rain stopped the contest at the close of four and one-half innings of play with Riley's nine far out in front.

Suder, nominated for hurling duties by McCoy, started the debacle with a bad throw to first in the second inning when C. Marshall bunted to him after L. McMath had singled. Then Finley booted Heckathorne's drive, M. Cebula doubled and Evans singled, the net result being four runs. Suder allowed three hits in the third which, plus Babb's error, cost two more counters.

Briggle Sent to Mound.

Briggle, another southpaw, relieved Suder in the fourth and, though he fanned three men, he permitted three doubles and two triples that were translated into four more runs.

Mike Cebula was back at his old station on the hilltop and displayed the form that has made him famous hereabouts. He permitted but two hits, Crawford's triple as he led off in the first, and Babb's single in the second. His own wild pitch enabled Crawford to finish with the only run that Laughlin made. Thereafter, but one man reached first base—Parsons, who walked in the fourth. Mike fanned six.

Manager Riley shook up his batting order by sending Evans from the bottom to the top of the list of swatters. L. McMath, dropped to fifth place, recovered his batting capabilities. He reached the bag thrice, one on a single, another time on an error and the third trip on a three bagger. He scored on each occasion.

Heckathorne Makes Debut.

Wilde, out of the game as a result of an injured foot, gave way at first to Heckathorne, recently received with Stoffel from K. T. K. in a trade for Shaw and Kinsey. He played stellar ball at the initial sack, taking high, low and wide throws in turn.

Heckathorne got a big hand in the fourth when he retired Herbert by handling L. McMath's bad throw to him and particularly for that from Greene on Aulderheide's blow to the hot corner which he momentarily juggled. It was necessary to throw quickly and speedily to beat the runner. This Greene did and "Heck" gathere the ball despite the erratic toss.

Like McMath, he reached the bags three times—on a single, a double and an error, and scored once. To say the least it was an auspicious start for the former K. T. K. performer.

Stoffel, Heckathorne's partner in the swap, was in uniform but was not used.

W. Watson, Laughlin second sacker, distinguished himself in the third by retiring Mike Cebula on a forceout by Evans and later in the same period as an attempted double steal was launched by Evans and Heckathorne he intercepted the throw from Hunselman and accurately relayed it in time to nip Heckathorne at the plate.

Pitcher English was on the Laughlin bench. He will take Digman's place on the Newell hurling staff.

Nine Bat in First Frame.

Nine men batted for Chester in the second, four runs resulting. L. McMath, picking a low ball, singled to middle over second. C. Marshall, sacrificing, was safe at first as Suder threw high to W. Watson, who covered first on the play. Both runners moved up as F. Marshall went out, Suder to Babb. Finley booted Heckathorne's drive and L. McMath counted, tying the score, 1 to 1. M. Cebula doubled to left, the ball going over Parsen's head, scoring C. Marshall and Heckathorne. Evans singled through short, scoring M. Cebula. Greene went out, Finley to Babb. P. Cebula walked only to have Potts called out on strikes.

L. McMath was safe in the third as Babb booted his drive. C. Marshall went out, Finley to Babb. L. McMath going to second. F. Marshall singled to left, scoring L. McMath. Heckathorne singled to right, F. Marshall going to third. On a threatened double steal, Heckathorne, delaying his movements, F. Marshall scored beating the throw relayed to Herbert. M. Cebula singled, but was forced at second by Evans. On an attempted double steal Heckathorne was out at the plate, Hunselman to Watson to Hunselman.

After Greene and P. Cebula had been fanned by Briggle, who had succeeded Suder, Potts doubled to the flag on the left field line. L. McMath trinled to right, scoring Potts. C. Marshall immediately trinled to right, L. McMath counting. F. Marshall doubled to middle as C. Marshall finished. Heckathorne released a two-bagger on which F. Marshall finished. M. Cebula then fanned.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

The reason I have always discouraged the idea of letting the wrists break the clubhead directly back from the ball is because this action invariably leads the player nto too much wrist action and gets his clubhead too far ahead of himself in the back swing. That is, the clubhead is up to the top before anything else happens at all. This increases the difficulty of timing the swing and of maintaining rhythm. It is a little more difficult to learn the knack of keeping hands and clubhead about even in the earlier part of the back swing, but once the golfer has learned that he has something on which to develop. The clubhead, dragging along even with the hands, soon accustoms the player's fingers to feeling the weight of it, whereas with fast wrist action in the back swing the clubhead weight is never sensed. Try keeping it even and, to do so, determine to be a little slower in the first half of the back swing.

Chester Launches Second Half Drive With Win Over Newell

Mike Cebula, Back On Hilltop, Allows Laughlin Two Hits

Riley Nine Has 10 to 1 Lead When Contest is Stopped at End of Four and a Half Innings by Rain; Southpaw Suder is Hammered Hard.

DEFEATED for the first half championship of the City circuit by Laughlin only a few days ago Chester came back last night and lopped off the title holders in the initial clash of the final lap, at Smith Field. The score was decisive, 10 to 1.

Rain stopped the contest at the close of four and one-half innings of play with Riley's nine far out in front.

Suder, nominated for hurling duties by McCoy, started the debacle with a bad throw to first in the second inning when C. Marshall bunted to him after L. McMath had singled. Then Finley booted Heckathorne's drive, M. Cebula doubled and Evans singled, the net result being four runs. Suder allowed three hits in the third which, plus Babb's error, cost two more counters.

Briggle Sent to Mound.

Briggle, another southpaw, relieved Suder in the fourth and, though he fanned three men, he permitted three doubles and two triples that were translated into four more runs.

Mike Cebula was back at his old station on the hilltop and displayed the form that has made him famous hereabouts. He permitted but two hits, Crawford's triple as he led off in the first, and Babb's single in the second. His own wild pitch enabled Crawford to finish with the only run that Laughlin made. Thereafter, but one man reached first base—Parsons, who walked in the fourth. Mike fanned six.

Manager Riley shook up his batting order by sending Evans from the bottom to the top of the list of swatters. L. McMath, dropped to fifth place, recovered his batting capabilities. He reached the bag thrice, one on a single, another time on an error and the third trip on a three bagger. He scored on each occasion.

Heckathorne Makes Debut.

Wilde, out of the game as a result of an injured foot, gave way at first to Heckathorne, recently received with Stoffel from K. T. K. in a trade for Shaw and Kinsey. He played stellar ball at the initial sack, taking high, low and wide throws in turn.

Heckathorne got a big hand in the fourth when he retired Herbert by handling L. McMath's bad throw to him and particularly for that from Greene on Aulderheide's blow to the hot corner which he momentarily juggled. It was necessary to throw quickly and speedily to beat the runner. This Greene did and "Heck" gathere the ball despite the erratic toss.

Like McMath, he reached the bags three times—on a single, a double and an error, and scored once. To say the least it was an auspicious start for the former K. T. K. performer.

Stoffel, Heckathorne's partner in the swap, was in uniform but was not used.

W. Watson, Laughlin second sacker, distinguished himself in the third by retiring Mike Cebula on a forceout by Evans and later in the same period as an attempted double steal was launched by Evans and Heckathorne he intercepted the throw from Hunselman and accurately relayed it in time to nip Heckathorne at the plate.

Pitcher English was on the Laughlin bench. He will take Digman's place on the Newell hurling staff.

Nine Bat in First Frame.

Nine men batted for Chester in the second, four runs resulting. L. McMath, picking a low ball, singled to middle over second. C. Marshall, sacrificing, was safe at first as Suder threw high to W. Watson, who covered first on the play. Both runners moved up as F. Marshall went out, Suder to Babb. Finley booted Heckathorne's drive and L. McMath counted, tying the score, 1 to 1. M. Cebula doubled to left, the ball going over Parson's head, scoring C. Marshall and Heckathorne. Evans singled through short, scoring M. Cebula. Greene went out, Finley to Babb. P. Cebula walked only to have Potts called out on strikes.

L. McMath was safe in the third as Babb booted his drive. C. Marshall went out, Finley to Babb. L. McMath going to second. F. Marshall singled to left, scoring L. McMath. Heckatherne singled to right, F. Marshall going to third. On a threatened double steal, Heckathorne, delaying his movements, F. Marshall scored beating the throw relayed to Herbert. M. Cebula singled, but was forced at second by Evans. On an attempted double steal Heckathorne was out at the plate, Hunselman to Watson to Hunselman.

After Greene and P. Cebula had been fanned by Briggle, who had succeeded Suder, Potts doubled to the flag on the left field line. L. McMath trioled to right, scoring Potts. C. Marshall immediately trioled to right, L. McMath counting. F. Marshall doubled to middle as C. Marshall finished. Heckathorne released a two-bagger on which F. Marshall finished. M. Cebula then fanned.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Bee and Lou are modern girls sharing a Greenwich Village apartment. Bee is an actress, at present in the chrus, but keeping a stiff upper lip and a fond hope of success. Into the Village comes Delia, frail poetess of New England, seeking freedom from the repressions of her home. And Bee, a school chum of the freedom-seeker, invites her to share their apartment. Delia is determined to win through to the freedom she came for. Before the first evening is well under way Delia has met Wilbur, a young artist who is suffering from "too much mother" and whom Lou has undertaken to rescue; and Leslie, intimate of Lou; and Arthur Rockwell the poet whose work Delia knows and admires; and various others of the Village crowd. There is a gay party in the little apartment. As the festivities break up Leslie, frankly in love with Lou, protests on her putting Wilbur up at her apartment. She holds to her decision to keep the young artist under guard. During a conversation with the other two, next morning, Delia learns that Arthur, who has taken a liking to her, is unscrupulous. Yet she persist in yielding to his fascinations.

Bee, meanwhile, meets Fred, a young and successful business man who has been urging her to marry him. He fairly pleads with her, but she has her own ideas about marriage which do not conform to Fred's.

"I'm going to kiss you," he said.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN.

Bee's eyes filled. She laid an impulsive hand on his. "Fred, I am trying to be honest. I'm fond of you. There isn't anybody else. But I just can't see this your way. If I ever do give myself—"

"Oh, you will!"

"I may. Probably. One of these days. But when I do, it will be because I've found a man who can take me as a comrade. A man I can work side by side with."

He laughed shortly, then looked straight into her eyes and shook his head. "How in thunder do you know what you'll do, when and if?" said he. "Why bless your heart, Bee, the trouble with you is you've completely lost your sense of humor! Look here: I want you, and I'd take you on any terms. Any at all! If you wont marry, if you don't care for homes and suburbs and the family thing, how about—like Lou and Leslie Perkins?"

"Oh, no, Fred! No! I wont do that! I couldn't. Lou and I are two very different girls. Come, Fred; I really haven't another minute!"

"All right. There'll be a taxi at the door. I've already ordered it."

"You're always thoughtful, Fred." She was a little afraid of that taxi.

And she had reason to be. He took her deliberately in his arms. She struggled, but was helpless. With a strong hand he tipped the little round face up to his. "Don't be afraid Bee. You're in no real danger. But you've set me thinking. I'm going to kiss you—"

"No."

"—in a minute, after I've said what I'm going to say—"

"It wont be me!"

"Oh yes, it will! You and me. Us! Listen: I'm not going to be chivalrous any longer. That's all foolishness. I don't think I'm the type. Too headlong. From now on I'm going to put up a real fight for you. Keep right after you every day. As I said, I'd take you on any terms, Bee. The best terms I could get. But what I want is marriage, home, children—complete. It's plain I can make money enough. Listen Bee, I'm a success. I tell you! Will you marry me?"

"Please let me go!"

"Will you marry me?"

"Fred, the blunt truth is, you're not thrilling me at all."

"That's not the truth. That's a lie. Will you marry me?"

"No."

"All right." He was looking straight into her eyes. "I'm going to kiss you—"

"No."

"Listen to me! Oh, it's no good dodging—"

"Of course, you're stronger than I am—muscle—"

"Exactly. Muscles. I'm using 'em."

"It isn't fair."

"Why isn't it? I'm not asking favors now. I'm declaring war. I love you, or whatever it is. Certainly I want you. I want you so much that my life's a mess. Everything's in the air. I'm through waiting around and being good. I'm going to put up a fight now. You'll hear from me. There wont a day pass. Letters and flowers and everything. If you refuse to see me, at least you can't stop my reminding you that I'm crazy about you. I'm going to lay siege, mine and sap, bomb you from the air, with the postman's help—everything. Keep it up until you surrender. And you will surrender."

"No."

"Oh, to somebody. And it may as well be me."

"To nobody, Fred. Surrendering is precisely what I won't do."

"That's all rot. You're a girl. And the business of a girl is to become a woman. Oh, I know all about this modern stuff. Independence—competing with men. Oh, yes! But it's bunk. Childishness. The man roams and fights. The woman bears children and gives the best in her to rearing them—unless the race is going plumb to pot, that is. So why not admit the truth, first as last. Put your heart and back into the real job. You see Bee, I'm foot-loose and I don't like it. It isn't good for me. I want to be harnessed. I want somebody to fight for. I'm just a plain—"

"Fred let me go!"

"No." She struggled, but he caught her chin again in his bony, strong hand, pulled it upward, and firmly pressed a kiss on her mouth. "There! Can you tell me you're not thrilled now?"

She drew away and looked straight at him. Her color was high, her eyes flashing.

"Haven't I gained a little ground, Bee?"

"You've lost ground."

He caught her shoulders and shook her. "You know you're lying, Bee. I'm coming around after the show. Be waiting for you."

The taxi stopped. Here was Sheridan Square, and the red-brick theater, and the first groups of the evening crowd moving along the sidewalk. She wrenched her shoulders from his grasp, slipped like an agile boy out of the cab, and darted into the passage that led to the stage entrance. Two short words came snapping over her shoulder. They sounded like: "You needn't!"

"Where to, sir?"

Slowly Fred's eyes came to a focus on the chauffeur, standing there on the curb, holding the door open.

"I don't know Bill. Hell, I guess."

The man bent down to look at something on the step, then picked it up. It was a crushed bouquet of orchids. He didn't smile.

"I'll take it," Fred remarked shortly. "Go along."

The man slammed the door, climbed to his seat, then turned his head. "I didn't quite get that address sir," he said.

"Oh—uptown!"

Haskin's Letter

when and where he has the best chance of finding a job.

The central office and the seven permanent branches do not send many men direct to jobs. They usually tell the man, in person or by mail, where a branch office is operating and when it probably can place him. The permanent branch offices are at 806 Taylor street, Forth Worth, and City Market building, San Antonio, in Texas; 1923 Eighteenth street, Denver, Colo., Fourth floor, City Hall, Sioux City, Iowa; City Hall, Sioux Falls, South Dakota; 602 Northern Pacific avenue, Fargo, North Dakota; and Federal building, Spokane, Washington.

Towns which have branch offices at seasonal times include Amarillo and Plainview in Texas; Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Muskogee, and Enid in Oklahoma; Wichita, Hutchinson, Salina, Parsons, and Topeka in Kansas; Omaha and Lincoln in Nebraska; Mitchell and Huron in South Dakota; Grand Forks, Devils Lake, and Bismarck in North Dakota; Minneapolis and St. Paul in Minnesota; Bainville, Lewiston, and Great Falls in Montana; Pocatello in Idaho; Portland, Salem, Medford, and The Dalles in Oregon; Walla Walla, Colfax, Yakima, and Seattle in Washington. Others are selected as the demand indicates need for an office.

In Chicago there is a federal state office combined at 116 North Dearborn street, in St. Louis at 1405 Chestnut street, and in Little Rock at 106 Center street. These offices are a good distance from the harvest sections, but help with information to thousands of harvest laborers passing through those cities, and guide men in the right direction to the nearest job then available.

Time Element Important.

Fortunately for the workers and the farmers, the biggest wheat growing State, Kansas, harvested its crop earlier than the northern areas, and the usual army of about 40,000 itinerant workers needed in that state can later scatter into Nebraska, the Dakotas, Iowa, and Minnesota. The Montana cutting comes still later, usually in August. The Inland Empire area between the Rocky Mountains and the Cascades in Idaho, Oregon, and Washington, attracts a few of the more venturesome workers who have harvested earlier in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, but most of its forces come from the west coast.

Most of the wheat-belt states have other crops which call for seasonal labor, and the oat, rye, barley, and hay fields offer jobs, some before and some after the wheat crop. Threshing in many sections is a separate job from harvesting. Corn husking, potato digging, and fruit picking call for help late into the summer or early fall, and the agricultural army does not break up all at once when the wheat is cut. In every bunk house from the Mississippi to the Pacific Ocean there is talk of the next job to which men are moving.

The harvesting army has been mobilizing steadily since early June, and after July 4 has its ranks pretty well filled and the northward march going steadily forward. The government field employment offices move ahead the outposts and information sources for this army, while the central offices keeps the divisions informed of conditions as the attack on the wheat fields progresses. The chief clearing house is the Kansas City office, to which the department of labor urges that inquiries be directed.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to both houses concurring therein:

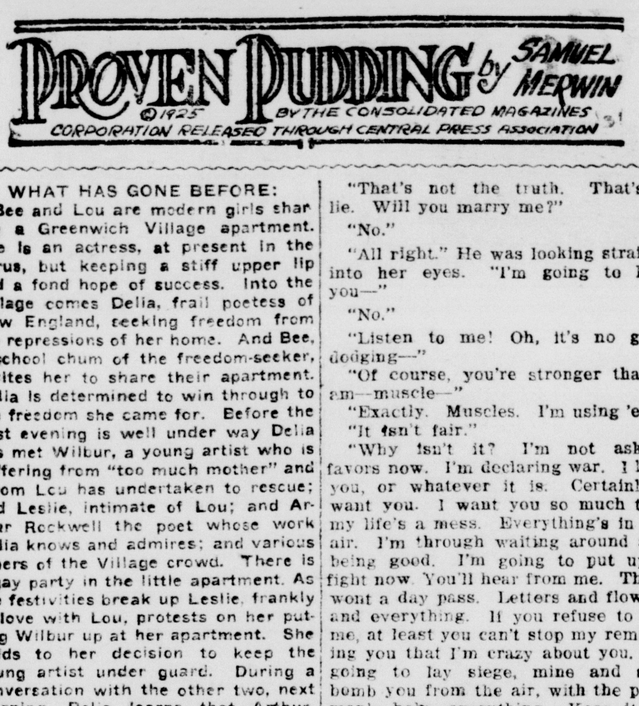
WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Bee and Lou are modern girls sharing a Greenwich Village apartment. Bee is an actress, at present in the chrus, but keeping a stiff upper lip and a fond hope of success. Into the Village comes Delia, frail poetess of New England, seeking freedom from the repressions of her home. And Bee, a school chum of the freedom-seeker, invites her to share their apartment. Delia is determined to win through to the freedom she came for. Before the first evening is well under way Delia has met Wilbur, a young artist who is suffering from "too much mother" and whom Lou has undertaken to rescue; and Leslie, intimate of Lou; and Arthur Rockwell the poet whose work Delia knows and admires; and various others of the Village crowd. There is a gay party in the little apartment. As the festivities break up Leslie, frankly in love with Lou, protests on her putting Wilbur up at her apartment. She holds to her decision to keep the young artist under guard. During a conversation with the other two, next morning, Delia learns that Arthur, who has taken a liking to her, is unscrupulous. Yet she persist in yielding to his fascinations.

Bee, meanwhile, meets Fred, a young and successful business man who has been urging her to marry him. He fairly pleads with her, but she has her own ideas about marriage which do not conform to Fred's.



"I'm going to kiss you," he said.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN.

Bee's eyes filled. She laid an impulsive hand on his. "Fred, I am trying to be honest. I'm fond of you. There isn't anybody else. But I just can't see this your way. If I ever do give myself—"

"Oh, you will!"

"I may. Probably. One of these days. But when I do, it will be because I've found a man who can take me as a comrade. A man I can work side by side with."

He laughed shortly, then looked straight into her eyes and shook his head. "How in thunder do you know what you'll do, when and if?" said he. "Why bless your heart, Bee, the trouble with you is you've completely lost your sense of humor! Look here: I want you, and I'd take you on any terms. Any at all! If you wont marry, if you don't care for homes and suburbs and the family thing, how about—like Lou and Leslie Perkins?"

"Oh, no, Fred! No! I wont do that! I couldn't. Lou and I are two very different girls. Come, Fred; I really haven't another minute!"

"All right. There'll be a taxi at the door. I've already ordered it."

"You're always thoughtful, Fred." She was a little afraid of that taxi.

And she had reason to be. He took her deliberately in his arms. She struggled, but was helpless. With a strong hand he tipped the little round face up to his. "Don't be afraid Bee. You're in no real danger. But you've set me thinking. I'm going to kiss you—"

"No."

"—in a minute, after I've said what I'm going to say—"

"It wont be me!"

"Oh yes, it will! You and me. Us! Listen: I'm not going to be chivalrous any longer. That's all foolishness. I don't think I'm the type. Too headlong. From now on I'm going to put up a real fight for you. Keep right after you every day. As I said, I'd take you on any terms, Bee. The best terms I could get. But what I want is marriage, home, children—complete. It's plain I can make money enough. Listen Bee, I'm a success, I tell you! Will you marry me?"

"Please let me go!"

"Will you marry me?"

"Fred, the blunt truth is, you're not thrilling me at all."

"That's not the truth. That's a lie. Will you marry me?"

"No."

"All right." He was looking straight into her eyes. "I'm going to kiss you—"

"No."

"Listen to me! Oh, it's no good dodging—"

"Of course, you're stronger than I am—muscle—"

"Exactly. Muscles. I'm using 'em."

"It isn't fair."

"Why isn't it? I'm not asking favors now. I'm declaring war. I love you, or whatever it is. Certainly I want you. I want you so much that my life's a mess. Everything's in the air. I'm through waiting around and being good. I'm going to put up a fight now. You'll hear from me. There wont a day pass. Letters and flowers and everything. If you refuse to see me, at least you can't stop my reminding you that I'm crazy about you. I'm going to lay siege, mine and sap, bomb you from the air, with the postman's help—everything. Keep it up until you surrender. And you will surrender."

"No."

"Oh, to somebody. And it may as well be me."

"To nobody, Fred. Surrendering is precisely what I won't do."

"That's all rot. You're a girl. And the business of a girl is to become a woman. Oh, I know all about this modern stuff. Independence—competing with men. Oh, yes! But it's bunk. Childishness. The man roams and fights. The woman bears children and gives the best in her to rearing them—unless the race is going plumb to pot, that is. So why not admit the truth, first as last. Put your heart and back into the real job. You see Bee, I'm foot-loose and I don't like it. It isn't good for me. I want to be harnessed. I want somebody to fight for. I'm just a plain—"

"Fred let me go!"

"No." She struggled, but he caught her chin again in his bony, strong hand, pulled it upward, and firmly pressed a kiss on her mouth. "There! Can you tell me you're not thrilled now?"

She drew away and looked straight at him. Her color was high, her eyes flashing.

"Haven't I gained a little ground, Bee?"

"You've lost ground."

He caught her shoulders and shook her. "You know you're lying, Bee. I'm coming around after the show. Be waiting for you."

The taxi stopped. Here was Sheridan Square, and the red-brick theater, and the first groups of the evening crowd moving along the sidewalk. She wrenched her shoulders from his grasp, slipped like an agile boy out of the cab, and darted into the passage that led to the stage entrance. Two short words came snapping over her shoulder. They sounded like: "You needn't!"

"Where to, sir?"

Slowly Fred's eyes came to a focus on the chauffeur, standing there on the curb, holding the door open.

"I don't know Bill. Hell, I guess."

The man bent down to look at something on the step, then picked it up. It was a crushed bouquet of orchids. He didn't smile.

"I'll take it," Fred remarked shortly. "Go along."

The man slammed the door, climbed to his seat, then turned his head. "I didn't quite get that address sir," he said.

"Oh—uptown!"

Haskin's Letter

when and where he has the best chance of finding a job.

The central office and the seven permanent branches do not send many men direct to jobs. They usually tell the man, in person or by mail, where a branch office is operating and when it probably can place him. The permanent branch offices are at 806 Taylor street, Forth Worth, and City Market building, San Antonio, in Texas; 1923 Eighteenth street, Denver, Colo., Fourth floor, City Hall, Sioux City, Iowa; City Hall, Sioux Falls, South Dakota; 602 Northern Pacific avenue, Fargo, North Dakota; and Federal building, Spokane, Washington.

Towns which have branch offices at seasonal times include Amarillo and Plainview in Texas; Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Muskogee, and Enid in Oklahoma; Wichita, Hutchinson, Salina, Parsons, and Topeka in Kansas; Omaha and Lincoln in Nebraska; Mitchell and Huron in South Dakota; Grand Forks, Devils Lake, and Bismarck in North Dakota; Minneapolis and St. Paul in Minnesota; Bainville, Lewiston, and Great Falls in Montana; Pocatello in Idaho; Portland, Salem, Medford, and The Dalles in Oregon; Walla Walla, Colfax, Yakima, and Seattle in Washington. Others are selected as the demand indicates need for an office.

In Chicago there is a federal state office combined at 116 North Dearborn street, in St. Louis at 1405 Chestnut street, and in Little Rock at 106 Center street. These offices are a good distance from the harvest sections, but help with information to thousands of harvest laborers passing through those cities, and guide men in the right direction to the nearest job then available.

Time Element Important.

Fortunately for the workers and the farmers, the biggest wheat growing State, Kansas, harvested its crop earlier than the northern areas, and the usual army of about 40,000 itinerant workers needed in that state can later scatter into Nebraska, the Dakotas, Iowa, and Minnesota. The Montana cutting comes still later, usually in August. The Inland Empire area between the Rocky Mountains and the Cascades in Idaho, Oregon, and Washington, attracts a few of the more venturesome workers who have harvested earlier in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, but most of its forces come from the west coast.

Most of the wheat-belt states have other crops which call for seasonal labor, and the oat, rye, barley, and hay fields offer jobs, some before and some after the wheat crop. Threshing in many sections is a separate job from harvesting. Corn husking, potato digging, and fruit picking call for help late into the summer or early fall, and the agricultural army does not break up all at once when the wheat is cut. In every bunk house from the Mississippi to the Pacific Ocean there is talk of the next job to which men are moving.

The harvesting army has been mobilizing steadily since early June, and after July 4 has its ranks pretty well filled and the northward march going steadily forward. The government field employment offices move ahead the outposts and information sources for this army, while the central offices keeps the divisions informed of conditions as the attack on the wheat fields progresses. The chief clearing house is the Kansas City office, to which the department of labor urges that inquiries be directed.

WOMAN IS HACKED TO DEATH

TWO KILLED IN AUTO COLLISION AT CROSSING

Today

A Sad Procession.
Prevention is Science.
Mulharram and Killings.
Dreadful Monotony.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

WOUNDED French veterans paraded in Paris recently, marching in silence, to the statue of Washington.

The parade was a protest against payment of one-half the French debts to this country—one-half, interest included, is the arrangement tentatively concluded between France and the United States.

It was a procession to sadden any heart, especially as a million and a half of the French wounded remained at home.

But that long line of wounded was not created by this country. When the French followed Napoleon III against Bismarck and lost Alsace-Lorraine, the foundation was laid for the great war. This country, certainly, did not start that war, or wound any of the cripples in that sad parade.

This writer and many other Americans would like to see the question of French payment postponed indefinitely, or at least until French wounds are healed and prosperity restored, and without interest, meanwhile. But France has no good reason for hating the United States; Italy, England and other countries have no reason.

They all hate this country because the United States lent billions to them all. And not one of them, with conditions reversed, would have lent any national money to us, or sent one man to our cause, unless he had come of his own will.

ISRAEL HECHT, dying in Philadelphia leaves $1,000,000 to buy coal for poor families. A man working hard all his life, then leaving all that he had earned to the poor, regardless of race or religion, sets a good example.

But $1,000,000, or half of it, invested in scientific work might solve the fuel problem, and make the poor practically independent of high coal prices.

Thirty millions, it has been said, would be enough to dig down into the earth and tap inexhaustible heat sources that would put an end to all coal digging.

In the long run the policy of John D. Rockefeller and of his son, John D., Jr., is the wise policy.

They spend their millions, not to cure individual cases of poverty or disease, but to make disease and poverty impossible. They have practically wiped out in North and South America the yellow fever that once killed tens of thousands a year. You couldn't die of yellow fever now if you tried. That is really intelligent philanthropy.

TODAY is the Mulharram, New Year of the Mohammedans, and the British ruling India look forward to fresh outbreaks of fighting and killing among Britain's Mohammedan and Hindu subjects that hate each other.

Fortunately for the British, the fighting Mohammedans are outnum-

Oh Dear! I Must Do The Dishes!

What woman hasn't at some time felt that she would rather go without dinner than have to look forward to washing the dishes?

It is not necessary to feel this way nowadays. The Bureau of Home Economics has studied this problem and worked out a method which is so simple and so quick that while dishwashing may still not be a joy, it at least is no longer a burden.

This information, together with a great many other labor-saving suggestions, is contained in a sixteen page booklet. MASSILLON MAN FACES MANSLAUGHTER COUNT AS RESULT OF CRASH

New Castle, Pa., Motorist and Sister are Victims of Accident on Road Near Akron.

WIFE OF DRIVER SERIOUSLY HURT

Witnesses Claim Ohioan Failed to Heed Highway Intersection Stop and Smashed Into Other Car.

AKRON, July 13—Two persons are dead today and a Massillon man is under arrest as a result of an automobile collision at the Akron-Medina and Cleveland - Massillon road crossing.

The dead are:

WILLIAM H. BRYAN, 935 Beckford avenue, New Castle, Pa.

MRS. HOWARD HISER, 418 Wisman street, Massillon, Bryan's sister.

Mrs. Bryan, wife of one of the victims, was seriously hurt when both cars overturned.

Marion Peach, of Massillon, who is under arrest, probably will be charged with manslaughter as a result of alleged careless driving. He is said to have failed to heed a highway stop.

Scene of Many Accidents.

According to witnesses Peach failed to stop at the intersection and sped across the main highway, smashing into the New Castle car.

Bryan and his sister were unconscious when they reached the hospital and could not be questioned.

Mrs. Bryan has a broken collar bone but will recover. Her daughter in school at Ann Arbor, Mich., has been notified.

Numerous accidents have occurred at the crossing since the opening of the newly paved Cleveland-Massillon road. In every case it is said, they were due to failure of drivers on that highway to stop at the main road.

Married Life Lot Of Bologna, Says Divorce Petition

AKRON, July 13—Married life is nothing but a lot of bologna, says the divorce petition of John Smith, of Barberton. He claims his wife, Rose, refused to cook wholesome, palatable meals, but insisted on stuffing him with bologna and other stuff which impaired his health. On June 26, he says, she caused his arrest on a false charge for which he was sentenced to 30 days in the Canton workhouse.

All this was done, he insists, that she might have a chance to sell the household goods and his clothes and depart for her former home in Roan Mountain, Tenn.

TWO CREWS WIN FIGHT AGAINST STORM ON LAKE

Detroit Catboat Lands at Put-in-Bay After Hard Battle.

OHIOANS RESCUED

Eight Clevelanders Were Buffeted by High Winds.

PUT-IN-BAY, O., July 13.—The crippled Detroit catboat, CK-23, owned by Steve De Orlow, of Detroit, for whom coast guards and scores of boatmen were searching, crept into Pit-in-Bay early today.

De Orlow and his two companions were near a state of collapse from a 24-hour battle with high winds and rough water.

The crew said their spar broke and the CK-23 was blown aground at Middle Sister island from where they set sail with a makeshift spar.

Eight Clevelanders who were in a power boat that was also crippled, were rescued late yesterday after being buffeted for hours on the stormy lake.

They were: Frederick Squires, Cleveland yachtsman, and his sons, Frederick, Jr., and Robert; Margaret Hall, his niece; Wendell Chamberlain, William Eckert, Ellis Minners and Carl Schuele.

The power boat struck a reef, breaking the crank shaft, according to Squires and the boat was helpless.

Forty-eight girls, 10 years of age and over, are encamped at the Y. M. C. A. recreation center, Camp Pine Ridge, in Madison township. Every tent is filled.

The party is in charge of Mrs. Emma Sutton, camp director, assisted by Miss Evelyn Frederick, public health nurse; Miss Bertha Bennett, school teacher, and Misses Ruth Price, Helen Barnhart and Jean Langfitt, high school students.

The girls will remain there until July 24. Junior boys, between the ages of 12 and 15 years, will be the next group to use the camp. A near capacity crowd of younger boys occupied the camp during the 12-day period, which ended last Saturday.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Ten of the 17 bodies removed from the burning arsenal at Lake Denmark, N. J., yesterday, following the disastrous $100,000,000 explosions of the week-end, have been positively identified, it was announced today at the naval hospital morgue in Brooklyn. They were:

Lieut. George W. Bott, Jr., Richmond, Va.

It was regarded today as doubtful if the other seven bodies ever would be identified, because of their condition, and they may be buried in Arlington National cemetery in a common grave.

The 10 will be shipped to the homes of relatives as soon as claimed. In the meantime they lie in their flag draped coffins beside the remaining victims of the submarine S-51.

SHOE COBBLER SHOT BY BOY

Joseph Vandyne is Accidentally Wounded at Tiltonville.

Joseph Vandyne, 58, shoe cobbler at Tiltonville, Jefferson county, and a former resident of this city, is recovering in the Martin's Ferry hospital today from the effects of a bullet wound in the head, as a result of the accidental discharge of a revolver.

Vandyne was displaying an old model army automatic revolver in the window of his cobbling shop, when a boy, about 14 years of age, picked up the weapon and pulled the trigger.

Vandyne, according to relatives, left East Liverpool about five years ago. Elzie Vandyne, of Leonard street, and Samuel Vandyne, of La Croft, are brothers.

Grant District Electors Vote Aug. 3 On School Bond Issue

Board of Education Submits $75,000 Proposal in Keeping With Offer of $30,000 Cash and Site.

In keeping with a conditional offer of $30,000 in cash and a free site, with a market value of $10,000, electors of Grant district, Hancock county will vote on a proposal to issue $75,000 in bonds for a new district high and elementary school, to be erected in Newell, at the primary election on Tuesday, August 3.

The offer of $25,000 cash by Homer Laughlin China company, $5,000 cash by W. E. Wells, secretary-treasurer of the company, and site by the North American Manufacturing company, is contingent upon approval of a bond issue to erect and equip the structure.

The Grant district board of education, to whom the offer was made about two months ago, has approved plans for a one-story, eight-room building. The site is part of the old Kenilworth Country club golf course, opposite the Dr. A. V. Bleininger home.

District electors, more than a year ago, rejected a $60,000 school bond issue.

Grant district schools, at present, are crowded. A two-room portable school and three rented rooms are being used for class purposes because of the congested condition of the Fourth street building.

Between 45 and 50 per cent of the district taxes is paid by corporations and public utilities. This means that the donors of the cash and the site will pay a large share toward the liquidation of the bonds, if the proposal is sanctioned.

Police Find Pint Bottle of Liquor and Whisky Glass in Girl's Skirt at Dresden Avenue Place.

Chief of Police Hugh McDermott and Patrolman James Haley raided a Dresden avenue restaurant at 9:30 o'clock this morning, arresting V. A. Carroll, proprietor, and a waitress, Miss Eleanor Bintyga, upon dry law charges.

Carroll, arraigned before Municipal Judge Hanley, was found guilty upon a charge of keeping a place where intoxicating liquors were stored and was fined $400 and costs. The girl, who was charged with the illegal possession of intoxicants, drew a fine of $100 and costs. Both fines, totalling $511.60, were paid.

Police say that a pint bottle partly filled with corn liquor and a whisky glass were found concealed in the girl's skirts.

Civic League Asks Solons to Resurface West Ninth Street

Resurfacing of West Ninth street from Dresden avenue to Lisbon street, was urged by members of the West Side Civic league at a meeting in the basement of the Anderson Methodist Episcopal church last night.

Committee members who recently protested to council against the West Ninth street property holders being forced to bear expense in connecting with new water main along this thoroughfare, made their report.

The league directed a committee to urge the grading and paving of Chestnut street between West Eighth and West Ninth street. Service-Safety Director Moore and Councilman George Hughes will be asked to attend next meeting to discuss proposed street improvements.

DAYTON, O., July 13.—A long felt desire by Mrs. Mary Backus, 90 years old, to take a ride in an airplane was gratified today when she enjoyed a 15-minute aerial trip over Dayton.

"Wonderful," was Mrs. Backus' comment when the trip was concluded. "I have ridden now on everything except a submarine, and I hope to do that some day."

Youngstown Girl, 12, Slashed With Razor; Man Held

YOUNGSTOWN, July 13.—Lila Caro, 12, was in a precarious condition in a local hospital today as the result of being slashed across the throat with a razor by Ramon Avallo, according to police. Avallo was under arrest. He admitted, police stated, he cut the child for revenge because her father ejected him from their house recently. Police, however, declared that indications pointed to the criminal assault of the girl. The two families lived across the street from each other in the little town of Cillero, Lug county, Spain, before emigating to this country.

OHIOAN KILLED BY STREET CAR

COLUMBUS, July 13.—An unidentified colored man was instantly killed near here today when struck by an interurban street car. He had been carrying a sack of coal on his shoulder and failed to heed whistle signals from the car. The body was horribly mangled.

BODY OF YOUNG VICTIM FOUND CRAMMED INTO BOXES AND BAG

Gruesome Discovery Made in Boston Suburb.

AUTOPSY ORDERED

One Receptacle Contains Girl's Head, Other Butchered Parts.

BOSTON, July 13.—Crammed into two cardboard boxes and a burlap bag, the dismembered body of a young woman, apparently in her early twenties, was discovered today near a cemetery at Mattapan, a suburb.

After a preliminary examination by Medical Examiner Leary, police expressed the belief that the girl had been slain. The body was taken to the city morgue for an autopsy.

Police Are Baffled.

The gruesome discovery was made by a Boston policeman who immediately telephoned headquarters and a squad of officers was dispatched to the scene to guard the boxes until Medical Examiner Leary arrived.

Police were unable to account for the finding of the boxes containing the pieces of the body in such a conspicuous place within the call of human voice of a thickly populated residental section.

The policeman made the discovery accidentally. Noticing the boxes, one at the edge of a curb and the other on a sidewalk, while patroling his beat, he casually walked over to inspect them, and a glance under the lids revealed the remains.

One of the corrugated boxes contained the woman's head and the other the butchered parts of the body.

HIT-SKIP CAR INJURES BOY

Paul Ruff, 11, Sustains Fracture of Right Ankle.

Paul Ruff, 11, son of Mrs. Lena Ruff, of Alliance, is in the City hospital suffering from a broken right ankle sustained at 9 o'clock this morning when struck by a "hit-skip" motorist on the Country Club road, north of Thompson Park.

The lad, who is spending the summer with his brother, Walter Ruff, and wife, 123 East Second street, was out driving with the Ruff family this morning. Near the Country Club, they parked the car to talk to a friend.

As young Ruff started to walk across the road, the unidentified motorist struck him, the force of the impact hurling him over an embankment. The boy was placed in the Ruff machine and brought back to his brother's home. Later he was removed to the hospital in the Sturgis ambulance. Dr. W. A. Hobbs attended him.

The car driven by the "hit-skip" motorist, according to Chief of Police Hugh McDermott who made an investigation, was a Nash roadster and carried license No. B-37086. Police have telegraphed to Columbus to obtain the name and address of the owner. Charges of fast and reckless driving will be filed against him.

The speeding car is said to have carried two men and two women.

RADIO WILL BE EMPLOYED TO PURSUE RUM SMUGGLERS AS SOON AS EQUIPMENT CAN BE INSTALLED ON BOATS

Short Wave Length Direction Finders Will be Used on Coast Guard Craft.

WASHINGTON, July 13—Radio will be employed to pursue rum smugglers as soon as short wave length direction finders can be installed on coast guard boats, it was announced today.

Following exhaustive tests by the bureau of standards, a high frequency radio direction finder has been perfected for use on the rumchasers.

Commander S. S. Yeandle, aid to Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard, said that the new direction devices will be invaluable in navigation protection work and in keeping headquarters informed of the position of all government boats, as well as in law enforcement operations.

The direction finder determines the direction from which any radio signals come. Two vessels, some distance apart, can jointly determine the exact location of any ship transmitting radio signals through a mathematical calculation, even though atmospheric conditions prevents reading the message.

Officials said that although the rum rows, existing off the North Atlantic, Florida and gulf coasts, have been reduced materially from last year, the smugglers are becoming highly modernized.

Most of the rum runners maintain both high and low wave length sending apparatus and receivers to keep

P. R. R. MEN SET SAFETY RECORD

Campaign Speeds up Work on Wheeling Division.

A bright page in the history of safety on the Pennsylvania Railroad has been written by employes of the Wheeling division. Up to June 28 not an employe among the nearly 2,000 working on that division has been injured in 41 days. The last personal injury report was prepared on May 18.

During the month of May but three employes were injured and up until the 28th day of last month not a member of that vast organization was forced to lay off duty due to an accident.

The "No Accident Campaign" started in May as a part of the Safety First Movement not only resulted in having no "time lost accidents" in the M. of E. department, but speeded up the work in the different departments to the extent that several records were broken at Mingo Junction during the month.

The friendly rivalry evident among the different gangs has "popped" up the men considerably, not only in the safety movement, but in the performance of their duties as well. This enthusiasm is not confined to Mingo Junction, but has spread as well to the other shops on the division, which include Bellaire, O; 4th street, Wheeling; Peninsula Shop, also at Wheeling, and Mill Run Shop at Zanesville, this latter being a narrow gauge road shop.

Since April 18, there has not been a "time lost" accident in the maintenance of Equipment department, while the last accident at the Car shop occurred on April 12.

While this remarkable safety record is being made, the employes are more than maintaining operating performance. At Mingo Junction enginehouse during May, with a total force of 149 men, there were 38 locomotives dispatched daily, which means that all minor repairs were handled to insure operation of these locomotives on their assigned runs.

Set Several Records.

There were 65 regular M. P. 162's or boiler washes during May as well as 31 intermediate wash outs. This latter being a record for Mingo Junction.

Another record of which Master Mechanic E. L. Bachman and his force are proud is that with a total of 2,226 locomotives dispatched and handled over the division during May, there were no passenger locomotive failures and but two freight locomotives failures. There have been no locomotive failures on the O. R. & W. portion of the division this year.

The record made in handling cars on the Wheeling Division is on a par with that of the locomotive end, for with a total of 82,238 cars handled over the division, there were but ten failures of which but five were charged to Mingo Junction. Forty-two thousand and eighty-five cars were handled through Mingo Junction yard alone, of which 1,116 were repaired on the shop track, being taken care of with a force of but twelve car gangs. This is an average of a trifle over forty cars per day, or two cars per day per man. This, of course, does not include the minor repairs made to cars out in the yard.

The next meeting of the club will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Zoellers. It will take the form of a cover dish party.

Illinois Man Invents New Auto Gas Saver

Walter Critchlow, 4633-K street, Wheaton, Ill., has patented a new gas saver that beats anything ever gotten out. With it on Fords show as high as 61 miles on a gallon. Other makes do equally well. This new invention saves gas and oil, makes a Ford start instantly in any weather and completely de-carbonizes the engine. Mr. Critchlow offers 1 free to quickly advertise. Write him for one. He also wants County and State Distributors who can make $500 to $2,500 per month.

Miss Fordyce was again medalist yesterday turning in a score of 85 in the 18-hole qualifying round.

Mrs. Becaer startled the gallery by taking the third, 125-yard hole in one.

Tunney-Rickard Confer.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Gene Tunney, challenger for the world's heavyweight title, was scheduled to confer with Tex Richard today on the proposed match between Tunney and Jack Dempsey under Rickard's auspices on September 16. The match has been barred here by the state Athletic commission and private advices are to the effect that it will not find a welcome in Chicago, leaving only Jersey City as an available site.

CHICAGO CARD IS COMPLETED

CHICAGO, July 13. — Jim Mullen, Chicago fight promoter, was back home from New York today. More important, Mullen announced that his card for the big July 24 show at White Sox park is complete.

Four ten-round bouts, featuring Billy Petrolle, the "Fargo Express" and Johnny Adams of California, in the main event, will make up the program. Another feature fight will be that of Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, and Tommy Ryan, of McKeesport, Pa.

It is a fat bird that bastes itself.

Y. M. C. A. Life-Saving Course

A life-saving class for male swimmers over 17 years of age will be organized by the Young Men's Christian association tonight, when applicants who are able to swim one-quarter of a mile, demonstrate back and side strokes, perform front dive in good style and retrieve objects in water at least six feet deep, will be given instruction by an authorized Red Cross examiner.

Frank Manton, Playground supervisor, will be in charge of the class, while special instruction, too, will be given by Carl W. Robbins, life-saving field representative of the Red Cross, who will visit here next week.

Two drownings in the East Liverpool district within a month drive home the fact that summer, which ought to be a season of unalloyed health and pleasure, too often becomes a season of sorrow and trouble for persons who go at their warm weather activities with too much zeal and too little sense.

The Y. M. C. A. course will emphasize not only how to save persons from drowning but also ways to lessen the number of river, lake, creek and bathing pool victims. And the admonitions, don't go in swimming alone; don't go in swimming after a big meal or while over-heated, and don't do foolhardy stunts while swimming, or boating, which are impressed upon life-savers also apply to other bathers.

Swimmers who are qualified for this all-important work should enroll in the Y. M. C. A. life-saving class.

French Bitterness

The bitter feeling in France against America, based on our war debt policy, as shown by the recent parade of protest in Paris by the wounded French veterans, is hard for Americans to understand. Properly, the American ambassador entered a protest against it. Properly, too, the American volunteers who fought under the French flag refused to participate in a demonstration which seemed to be an insult to their country.

As Americans analyze the situation, the recent Mellon-Berenger arrangement for the settlement of the French debt to this country virtually cancelled nearly half of that debt. Of a principal totalling about $4,000,000,000, it called upon France to make a long series of payments whose cash value, at current interest rates, is only a little more than $2,000,000,000. Moreover, nearly all of this principal charged against France is not, as the French people insist, "war loans" made while France was fighting as our ally, but reconstruction loans made to France after the armistice.

"What does France want and expect?" Americans ask, in pained surprise.

Yet it is impossible not to sympathize with the French. Their troubles are many. Their franc is down to about two for a nickel, and steadily going lower. Nothing yet done to save it has any lasting effect. French business and industry are upset. Life for most of the French people is hard. French war debts are not being paid, as Frenchmen expected, out of German indemnities. A wronged nation, as victor, sees herself in worse plight than the beaten enemy that forced the war on her.

Perhaps it is too much to expect the French to get the American viewpoint. The next best thing is for prosperous Americans to try to grasp the French viewpoint, and instead of growing angry at the French attitude, regard it with patient sympathy.

Radio Chaos

The radio broadcasting business is in confusion, as a result of court decisions denying the authority of the federal department of commerce to control wave-lengths. Secretary Hoover, after long-continued efforts to bring order into this new industry, throws up his hands.

"Persons desiring to construct stations," he says, "must determine for themselves whether there will be wave-lengths available for their use without interference with other stations. They must proceed at their own risk."

About all the government can do is register the chosen wave-length. If any other broadcaster wants to break in and use it, apparently there is no recourse.

All this because congress, in the last session, failed to enact laws to handle the radio situation. Giving all due credit to a congress which has done much good work, it must be said that this was an inexcusable piece of negligence. There was an excellent measure before it, and plenty of opportunity to modify it if congress chose to do so.

For the present, the radio industry is placed on its honor. Its own welfare may dictate a general agreement to let Secretary Hoover continue running the system unofficially, until such time as he or some one else is given explicit authority. That should be as early as possible next winter.

Scandal in Poland: At a recent duel between two statesmen, one of them, instead of shooting the other, was so ungentlemanly as to tell him what he thought of him, then turn his back and walk off. The man whose life he saved will never forgive that.

If what Booth Tarkington says about skirts is true, any woman might make a good investment by saving her old ones to sell to a museum.

If the Democrats are going to hold to their two-thirds rule for nominations, they'd better call their next presidential convention pretty soon.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 13. — Learned callings frequently touch low level in the metropolis. In the backwaters of life are many drifting intellectuals who could not cope with the commercial spirit of the day. They float to oblivion.

In a public park is a former professor of astronomy who nightly presides over a portable telescope through which the public may view the heavens at five cents a peek. He once held a chair in a mid-west university and now occupies a cot in an East Side attic.

One of the drab, colorless women who hawk birth control literature in the shadowy doorways of Broadway was an honor graduate at a great eastern college. Sudden family misfortune found her unfitted as a governess and a teacher.

A reporter several years ago discovered a man who had gained some distinction as an Egyptologist acting as outside barker for a wax museum on 14th street. His downfall, not always the rule in such cases, was brought about through drink.

A painter whose brush won him three prominent gallery exhibits reached a state of mental sterility that drove him to waiting in a cheap hash-house to provide necessities. That was six years ago and he is still a waiter.

One of the most unusual cases is that of a psychoanalist who attained enviable affluence delving for human complexes. His specialty was aiding those who feared failure. He is said to have guided many out of the rut of despair, and then faced failure himself. And could not cope with it.

The dignified silver-haired gentleman often seen behind the cashier's cage in all night restaurants are largely recruited from men of education who failed in life. Night work offers them opportunity to avoid many they knew in more affluent days.

It was refreshing to hear Hicksville, L. I., refused to change its name. The word "hick," as an opprobrium of yokelry, is said to have originated there—although many other states have Hicksville. As a matter of fact, one of the best known of cosmopolites came from Hicksville—Arthur Moss, of the Paris Times, and long a figure in the artistic life of Greenwich Village.

Cos Cob in Connecticut is another nearby New York village often the butt of the theatrical wheeze. It has a superb residential district and a metropolitan dress as sprightly as any suburban city. These small towns with trick names often have a way of confounding the kidders by turning out extraordinary notables. Sinclair Lewis was born in Sauk Center, Minn.; H. T. Webster, the cartoonist, in Tomahawk, Wis.; Esther Walker, of phonograph record fame, in Pee Wee Valley, Ky.; Edna Ferber, the novelist, in Appleton, Wis.; Ring Lardner, the humorist, in Niles, Mich.; Ray Long in Lebanon, Ind., and Homer Croy in Marysville, Mo.

In fact, at the moment I cannot think of a reigning celebrity who was born in New York, although they are probably numerous. Genius, after all, is not geographical, and New York can furnish them as well as Long Horn, Dakota.

One of the big bumps of resentment the small town carries for New York is that the metropolis laughs at it. This always struck me as silly and bigoted. Every small town I have ever seen has a pretty good time laughing at New York.

The small towns can let New York laugh—ho! ho!—and merely reply with a knowing shrug: "After all, most of you came from our towns."

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Harvesting the Wheat.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 13.—Aided and directed so far as possible by the free service of the United States Department of Labor, the annual invasion of the wheat-growing West by 100,000 temporary harvest hands is under full swing. These men, with the farmers and the more permanent help, are laying low the waving fields which raise the bread crop of the nation. Starting in Texas in June, the harvesting army has moved northward into Oklahoma and Kansas, is sending its advance guard into Nebraska, and has new fields to conquer when these have been won by the reaper and the binder.

Tempted by the lure of the outdoors, and the three and four dollar a day wages, all sorts and conditions of men make up the harvesting army. Some are regulars who have seen these lands before and will see them again, summer after summer. Others are college men on vacation, or city men seizing a chance to travel and see the West. Others are workers of the railroad and highway construction camps and laborers in other lines, who seek more permanent jobs in the winter, but hit the open trails when June rolls around and sleeping under the open sky is a joy and not a trouble.

Government and state supervision and assistance in finding jobs for men and men for jobs have improved the circumstances of the temporary harvest hand a good deal in recent years. He does not sleep in the open unless he wants to. Bunk houses or tents are supplied. He travels by railroad in a coach, unless he owns a flivver or prefers the chances of free rides on freight trains, or a lift along the highway by tourists. He gets more money and takes fewer chances than of old, but he is still essentially an adventurer, and he follows the crops northward and westward and gets over about as much territory as suits his fancy. The long hours and hard work of the harvest fields have not changed much. There are no easy jobs. It is a man's work, and it hardens the muscles and callouses the hands and browns the skin and produces an appetite the like of which is not found outside of a fighting army.

Supplying this army of labor to the wheat fields when it is needed and under fair conditions to the workers is no simple task. It is a task that must be done promptly, for wheat must be cut when it is ready, and the men must move to the place where the job is waiting. State employment offices and public offices of cities long since began to supplement and often displace the old private employment office which sold jobs at a dollar each to itinerant workers. Then the federal government came to realize that the wheat harvest is essentially an interstate proposition, and the department of labor established its nation-wide system of offices to gather and distribute timely and accurate information to harvest workers.

Central Office Maintained.

From its central office at 2023 Main street, Kansas City, Missouri, the Farm Labor Division of the United States employment service now directs seven permanent offices and several scores of temporary branches which are opened up at seasonal times in fourteen states, and closed when the crop in each state is harvested. From the Kansas City office go out timely bulletins setting forth wheat cutting dates in various sections, wages paid in each section, and the estimated number of men that will be needed from outside, together with the address of the nearest temporary office where free directions to the job will be available with a minimum of travel and lost time. The harvest worker pays his own way and takes his own chance, but the government does everything it can to tell him

HER FATHER'S SPECIALTY

In a public school in New York City, attended almost exclusively by foreign-born children, a teacher of one of the lower grades was endeavoring to compile facts pertaining to the family histories of her young charges for the official board.

To each child she gave a blank to be filled in with the proper answers. One ragged little girl gave lengthy consideration to this sentence:

"State your father's business."

Then in the space provided she wrote the one word:

"Outa."

The teacher, collecting the forms, struck this particular word and puzzled long to make out its meaning.

"Rachel," she asked at length, "what does 'outa' mean?"

"It means my pape is outa business," explained the child, "so I writes it down 'Outa.'"

"But doesn't he ever work?" inquired the teacher.

"No, ma'am" said the child sadly; "he don't never work—he strikes!"

RESUME PROBE OF KIDNAPING OF EVANGELIST

Mother of Aimee Semple McPherson Testifies.

CALL SERGEANT

Los Angeles Grand Jury Will Make no Report.

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—The county grand jury investigation into the mysterious disappearance and asserted kidnaping of Aimee Semple McPherson, famed woman evangelist, was resumed today after nearly a week's recess.

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the pastor of Angelus temple, was expected to be the first witness today. Mrs. McPherson herself, it was indicated, may also be recalled for cross-examination.

Another probable witness today was Sergeant L. M. Murchison, of the police department at Douglas, Ariz., just across the border from Agua Prieta, Mexico, where Mrs. McPherson appeared, claiming to have escaped from kidnapers after 35 days of captivity.

The belief that Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus Temple, had sought a rendezvous in Riverside, Calif., with Mrs. McPherson was abandoned today when Rev. Charles E. Jaynes, of Long Beach, declared he had an appointment with the evangelist and had inquired for her. Rev. Jaynes is pastor of the Riverside branch of Angelus Temple.

Authorities, however, were still hunting for Ormiston to testify before the grand jury.

Police were at a loss today to identify the man who took a shot at John J. Kershner late last night. Kershner is the author of a pamphlet, "The Disappearance of Aimee Semple McPherson." He has been repeatedly warned to remove his brochure from circulation.

Another development in the case today was the announcement of Superior Judge Keetch that the grand jury would make no report.

The public will not learn of any action taken by the grand jury unless an indictment is returned, the judge indicated.

Supreme Court Hits Cleveland Ban on Racing Bet News

COLUMBUS, July 12.—State Supreme Court Judge James E. Robinson today issued a temporary injunction restraining the city of Cleveland, Edwin Barry, public safety director, and Jacob Graul, chief of police of that city, from attempting to enforce against newspapers of general circulation the new city ordinance designed to prevent sale, display, or distribution of betting odds and selections on horse racing.

The injunction does not apply to newspapers, periodicals or publications devoted to, and chiefly made up of racing news, tips, odds or selections.

Issuance of the injunction was at the request of Henry Solomon, doing business as the Solomon News company, Cleveland.

It was stated at the office of the clerk of the state supreme court that the injunction will stand, at least, until the case can be reviewed by the full court. The case, it was stated, will not be heard before next fall.

bered four to one by the powerful Hindus and this for the time makes British rule in India safe.

It would be otherwise if the Mohammedans knew enough to celebrate their Muharram by making friends with the Hindus and uniting to rule India for those that live in India. Religious superstition, which is another name for ignorance, makes that impossible.

THE president in his forest camp works hard, as many hours as in the White House. He tells reporters that his vacation is merely "a change of scene."

So it is with all serious men. The real work they do is thinking and thinking does not stop until the heart stops, and it continues somewhere else when the thinking machine leaves the body.

However, vacation is a rest, for different parts of the brain think about different things. Change of scene means change of thought. The greatest brutality to human beings is inflicted by our industrial system, that condemns men to montony in occupation and surroundings.

Think, for instance, of those motor-subway system, now striking for betmen and switchmen in New York's ter pay, and destined probably to lose their fight. They must work seven days every week in dark tunnels, underground, to earn a miserable $38 for seven days work.

And their employers calmly tell you they can't afford to pay more. They don't tell you they could easily afford to pay double if previous management had not stolen scores of millions from the stockholders and looted the operating corporation.

ERROR CHARGED IN TICE CASE

Widow Carries Her Damage Claim to Lisbon Court.

A petition in error was filed in common pleas court, Lisbon, today, by Mrs. Jennie Tice, Harker avenue widow, in her suit for $1,500 damages against Patrolmen Chester Smith and Herman Roth and ex-City Jail Turnkey William Cline.

Verdict for the defense was returned by a jury when the case was tried in municipal court here. Motion for a new trial was overruled by Municipal Judge Hanley.

The suit was the aftermath of a raid made by the three officers on December 5, last. The raid, it is alleged, was made with a faulty search warrant which was intended for another woman who previously resided in the same street. The plaintiff charged that her reputation had been injured by the raid.

in touch with the movement of the coast guard patrol as well as their own shore service. An elaborate system of intelligence has been developed by the smugglers, with stations and secret agents scattered from Canada to Cuba, along the American coasts and in the Bahams.

Radio inspectors are co-operating with the law enforcement arms of the government in attempting to discover the illicit sending stations. In spite of lack of control over broadcasting, officials said that if stations were detected conniving with smugglers legal proceedings would be taken, probably under the conspiracy laws. High frequency direction finders will make possible more prompt relief of vessels in distress and should mean the saving of many lives, according to coast guard officers.

Fire Dies Down.

DOVER, N. J., July 13—Five hundred marines from Quantico, Va., today entered the smouldering, shell strewn inferno that was once the naval ammunitions depot at Lake Denmark. They entered not long after daybreak and bore orders to rake the treacherous debris for the bodies of the nine marines still accounted as missing.

Official announcements stated that the fire had died down and that all danger of the flames reaching and setting off the mighty army magazine, where $35,000,000 worth of explosives are stored, had passed. Danger to the marines who deployed through the smoking ruins was not minimized, however. Exploding shells beat an irregular tattoo and all members of the battalions were warned to be extremely cautious.

The two hundred odd marines who came here from Quantico yesterday were augmented by 300 others who arrived and went to work early today.

More Bodies Recovered.

Nineteen bodies have been recovered. Seventeen were brought out yesterday. They had died as they fought the fire which produced the explosion.

Lieut. Robert Ginsburgh, serving as spokesman for Captain J. M. Enochs, senior naval officer present, issued a statement as follows:

"Capt. Enochs reports that the fires are still burning in the navy munition depot and apparently they are slowly dying out and do not extend as far northward as they did yesterday afternoon.

"While some minor single shell explosions may still possibly occur, it is confidently felt that the major explosions are all over, that there is no further danger to be expected from any explosion. There is little wind and the explosion should not spread."

Relief measures in the area stricken by the explosion have now reached the point of maximum efficiency. The number of refugees in Dover and other towns out of the zone swept by exploding shells is estimated at 3,000

Red Cross Directs Relief.

Assistance is being given by the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the American Legion, the Elks and other civic organizations. Hundreds have been fed by the Legion. The Red Cross this morning assumed direction of all relief work.

Barred from their homes, miners and their families from Mount Hope and Hibernia are being quartered with friends and other residents of Dover and Mount Morris.

Scores of miners, followed by their wives and children trooped to Mount Hope eager to return to their shattered homes. They were met by sentries.

While the women and youngsters waited at the barrier, the men were escorted by marines to their cottages for clothing and other articles left behind in their mad flight following the outbreak of the explosions Saturday.

Wilbur Orders Inquiry.

A formal naval inquiry into the disaster has been ordered by Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy. The court of inquiry is expected to convene here tomorrow. While it has been definitely established that the first explosion was caused by a bolt of lightning, there are a number of matters that the court will have to go into and settle.

Rear Admiral E. A. Campbell, judge advocate of the navy, will preside. The court will take up, among other things, the question of damage to the army and navy arsenals and civilian property in towns adjoining Lake Denmark.

It is expected that suits aggregating millions of dollars will be filed against the government by citizens whose property was damaged.

Secretary Wilbur said he would file a report with Admiral Campbell before the court of inquiry begins. He declared that every precaution was taken to prevent the destruction by lightning of the arsenal. Photographs were shown to the secretary by navy officers, indicating that lightning rods were in use on the arsenal buildings.

From the description given him of the postures in which the bodies were found, Secretary Wilbur said he was confident every marine had died as he raced toward the fire in response to the fire call.

The question of removing the naval arsenal to an isolated section of the country will be taken up shortly, Secretary Wilbur revealed.

Many of the citizens of communities in this region strongly oppose removal of the ammunition stations. They hold that the prosperity of the region depends largely on the arsenals.

Message of Condolence.

WHITE PINES CAMP, N. Y., July 13.—Declaring that the New Jersey arsenal catastrophe showed clearly that "devotion to duty and heroism are not confined to the battlefield," President Coolidge today issued a statement of condolence to the widows and families of those who died in the explosion.

"The destruction of the naval ammunition depot at Lake Denmark, New Jersey, is a most deplorable catastrophe," he said. "I extend my sincere sympathy and that of the country to the relatives of those who died and to those who have been injured. The details received by me emphasize clearly that devotion to duty and heroism are not confined to the battlefield. The officers and men killed and wounded were serving their country in a hazardous post and deserve all the honor that can be paid.

"All who so promptly and with great self sacrifice responded to the calls for relief are to be commended and deserve the grateful thanks of us all."

Oppose Removal of Arsenals.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The army and navy prepared today to weather a bombardment for the removal of arsenals from the vicinity of large cities.

With Senator Edge, of New Jersey, and Mayor Jackson, of Baltimore, already making demands, army and navy officers were quick to reassure those who have pictured great cities being toppled by blasts.

Although explosives costing hundreds of millions of dollars are stored in big munitions depots, a recurrence of the Lake Denmark disaster was declared extremely unlikely.

"It never happened before in peacetime and may never happen again," declared Capt. Holden C. Richardson, assistant chief of the navy's bureau of ordinance. "There have been explosions of a single magazine, but none just like Saturday's disaster," he said.

"We have to store the navy's munitions near the coast," he added. "In every instance, precautions have been taken against disaster. Isolated sections were chosen for the depots and close inspections are made."

"Congress alone has authority to designate new sites and authorize removals," said Secretary of War Davis.

Derwin Dimmerling Badly Burned by July 4 "Fountain"

Derwin, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dimmerling, of College street, is suffering from the effects of a badly burned left hand and arm as the result of the unexpected explosion of a pyrotechnical "fountain" near his home shortly after noon.

Young Derwin and several other lads were playing with the fountain, which had been left over from their July 4 celebration. Previously they had been unable to explode it.

Derwin, it is said, was holding it in his hand when fire shot out from the end. He was taken to the office of Dr. Jean Sloan for medical attention.

River Gravel Company Purchases Famous Island Near Wheeling

MARTINS FERRY — Wheeling's Coney Island, situated in the Ohio river north of here, is to be removed. The Ohio River Gravel company, of Parkersburg, has purchased the island and put dredges to work reclaiming sand and gravel from the southern point of the island.

W. P. Gwathmey, general manager of the company, said it might be years before the island is entirely gone. His company has purchased several small islands in anticipation of a possible federal tax on dredging from the bed of the river. By this plan, it will be possible to avoid any such tax and yet not cut off the source of the company's product.

Coney Island was the name given what is known as First Sister island when an amusement park was operated there a score of years ago. The park was abandoned when the 1913 flood removed the last vestige of buildings. Since that time it has been cultivated by residents of the mainland.

It is well known to river pilots by reason of gas from an abandoned well, drilled during the Warwood, W. Va., oil and gas boom several years ago, burning much of the time and furnishing a natural beacon for the guidance of river navigators.

President Deters His Trip In Order to Greet Al Smith

White House Precedent is Shattered by Arrangements for Luncheon at White Pines Camp, N. Y.

WHITE PINES CAMP, N. Y., July 13.—A White House precedent was shattered here today when it was announced that President Coolidge has deferred his trip to Plymouth in order to receive Governor Al Smith as a luncheon guest on Friday.

After Gov. Smith had announced that he would visit the president and officially welcome him to the state, Mr. Coolidge sent an invitation to the governor to have luncheon with him either Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday this week. Gov. Smith was unable to appear on any of those three days and suggested Friday. The president had planned to leave for Plymouth Thursday but now it appears he will not go until Saturday.

An invitation to a White House luncheon always has been regarded as virtually mandatory.

CABLE, ILL., ONCE COMING CITY, NOW OFFICIALLY TAKEN OFF MAP

CABLE, Ill.—This village, pictured by early residents as a great city of the future, is now officially off the map.

Voters at a recent special election unanimously approved a proposition to abandon the village charter and to cease functinoning as a corporation, feeling that the tax for maintaining a village organization was too burdensome.

When the town began to boom in 1887 with the opening of a coal mine its residents peered into the future and saw Cable as one of the great metropolises. Within two years a charter was obtained and the settlement named in honor of P. L. and R. R. Cable, both of whom were prominent in the affairs of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad.

By 1890, census takes listed the village's population at 1,267. The veins of coal, however, began to thin out and Cable began to shrink. When the mine shut down Cable became a flag station.

The town now is practically deserted and it is believed that in a very short time the last house and the last store building will be emptied and corn will wave over what once was seen as a future Pittsburgh, Chicago or New York.

The man whose wife told him she would bake a cherry pie, if he would pick and stone the cherries, decided that he liked lemon pies better.—Canton News.

"NOT SO LONG AGO" FILM HIT

Betty Bronson and Ricardo Cortez at Ceramic.

Broadway, a wide and bustling street which, from the Battery Gardens to its opposite termination in a country road, may be four miles long—."

That was the description given of Broadway by Charles Dickens, the famous novelist, when he visited New York City about the middle of the last century.

And that is the Broadway which with its surrounding city, is shown in the Sidney Olcott-Paramount production, "Not So Long Ago," which is the feature at the Ceramic theatre. Olcott, who made "Little Old New York," "The Humming Bird," etc., has recreated the period marvelously well according to reports.

Betty Bronson, of "Peter Pan" fame, is a whole picture in herself in the quaint costumes of the time. Ricardo Cortez is co-featured with Betty in the production which was adapted for the screen by Violet Clark from the Broadway stage success of the same name by Arthur Richman.

Wealthy Town.

The streets of New York at the time were filled with omnibuses, tilburys, hackney cabs, gigs and phaetons. One thing that deeply impressed Dickens was the apparent wealth of the people, especially the women. No other city in the world could boast of so many expensively dressed women, "gorgeous in brightly colored silks, satins and ermine-lined cloaks, costly furs, ostrich feathers, and pink and blue rohan bonnets." They were escorted by men in Byron collars and tasselled cloaks, with whiskers under their chins.

As Mr. Dickens approached New York from the East River he saw crowded buildings, a forest of ships' masts with flapping sails and waving flags, and many steam ferry boats. The "forest of masts" would be strange today, but those were the days of the great Liverpool packets and China fleets, and Cherry street dance halls were the resorts of the "packet rats" and "limejuicers." The spires have vanished among the skyscrapers, and the only things left of these days are the ferries.

It must have been a lively town, what with the newsboys, the horns of the oystermen, the chimney sweeps and their raucous cries, the locksmiths, the peddlers with bells on their carts.

Parades Galore.

They used to have even more parades then than now. The target companies used to march—the Guards, the Fencibles, the Sharp-shooters—with all the company's plated ware carried on a pole at the head of the line— as Meade Minnigerode tells in "The Fabulous Forties."

New York was the metropolis of America then as it is today, with more than 300,000 people. Broadway was the most fashionable street in the country, with Lombardy poplars in front of the houses, and the pillars upholding the marquees in front of the stores covered with placards advertising the wares within.

MISS NILSSON IN HOBO ROLE

She Stars in "Miss Nobody" at the American.

An adventure in contentment is "Miss Nobody," which had a premiere last night at the American theatre.

It brings to those who see it not only a sense of the lure of vagabondage but imparts as well some understanding of the cloistered peace of soul that comes to that clan in their state of economic aparteness.

Duke, Bertie, Happy, Harmony and, not the least by any means, the Kid, populate in a major sense this really unique photodrama of the season. The Kid is none other than Anna Q. Nilsson, reverting for the first time since her remarkable performance in "Ponjola" to male attire. She, in common with the others named, portrays a happy-go-lucky knight of the road.

Disdaining the services of a "double" in this play of hobo life, Miss Nilsson actually "rides the rods" on a speeding freight train, paces the brakeman's runway on the top of careeing cars, perches on the bounding "bumpers" and undergoes the rigors of the brakeman's pet device for dislodging tramps clinging to the chassis of cars—the method known as "hanging a coupling pin."

Never in the knowledge of the critic has a star taken susch personal risks as are faced by the courageous Miss Nilsson in this production for the sake of realism, nor is her daring in vain, for these exploits, as photographed either from the top of the moving train or from platforms projecting from the side of the cars, form some of the most graphic film ever exhibited.

"Miss Nobody," aside from ite tensely dramatic situations, abounds in rich humor and is most capably interpreted by a cast at the head of which is a coterie of featured supporting artists comprised of Walter Pidgeon, screen "find" of the year; Louise Fazenda, Mitchell Lewis, Clyde Cook and Arthur Stone.

"Meaty" Richness and Bouquet

The aroma, fine flavor and uniform richness of Penco Coffee are due largely to care and skill in blending and roasting. Nothing is left to chance.

Chester Launches Second Half Drive With Win Over Newell

Mike Cebula, Back On Hilltop, Allows Laughlin Two Hits

Riley Nine Has 10 to 1 Lead When Contest is Stopped at End of Four and a Half Innings by Rain; Southpaw Suder is Hammered Hard.

DEFEATED for the first half championship of the City circuit by Laughlin only a few days ago Chester came back last night and lopped off the title holders in the initial clash of the final lap, at Smith Field. The score was decisive, 10 to 1.

Rain stopped the contest at the close of four and one-half innings of play with Riley's nine far out in front.

Suder, nominated for hurling duties by McCoy, started the debacle with a bad throw to first in the second inning when C. Marshall bunted to him after L. McMath had singled. Then Finley booted Heckathorne's drive, M. Cebula doubled and Evans singled, the net result being four runs. Suder allowed three hits in the third which, plus Babb's error, cost two more counters.

Briggle Sent to Mound.

Briggle, another southpaw, relieved Suder in the fourth and, though he fanned three men, he permitted three doubles and two triples that were translated into four more runs.

Mike Cebula was back at his old station on the hilltop and displayed the form that has made him famous hereabouts. He permitted but two hits, Crawford's triple as he led off in the first, and Babb's single in the second. His own wild pitch enabled Crawford to finish with the only run that Laughlin made. Thereafter, but one man reached first base—Parsons, who walked in the fourth. Mike fanned six.

Manager Riley shook up his batting order by sending Evans from the bottom to the top of the list of swatters. L. McMath, dropped to fifth place, recovered his batting capabilities. He reached the bag thrice, one on a single, another time on an error and the third trip on a three bagger. He scored on each occasion.

Heckathorne Makes Debut.

Wilde, out of the game as a result of an injured foot, gave way at first to Heckathorne, recently received with Stoffel from K. T. K. in a trade for Shaw and Kinsey. He played stellar ball at the initial sack, taking high, low and wide throws in turn.

Heckathorne got a big hand in the fourth when he retired Herbert by handling L. McMath's bad throw to him and particularly for that from Greene on Aulderheide's blow to the hot corner which he momentarily juggled. It was necessary to throw quickly and speedily to beat the runner. This Greene did and "Heck" gathere the ball despite the erratic toss.

Like McMath, he reached the bags three times—on a single, a double and an error, and scored once. To say the least it was an auspicious start for the former K. T. K. performer.

Stoffel, Heckathorne's partner in the swap, was in uniform but was not used.

W. Watson, Laughlin second sacker, distinguished himself in the third by retiring Mike Cebula on a forceout by Evans and later in the same period as an attempted double steal was launched by Evans and Heckathorne he intercepted the throw from Hunselman and accurately relayed it in time to nip Heckathorne at the plate.

Pitcher English was on the Laughlin bench. He will take Digman's place on the Newell hurling staff.

Nine Bat in First Frame.

Nine men batted for Chester in the second, four runs resulting. L. McMath, picking a low ball, singled to middle over second. C. Marshall, sacrificing, was safe at first as Suder threw high to W. Cebula singled, but was forced at second by Evans. On an attempted double steal Heckathorne was out at the plate, Hunselman to Watson to Hunselman.

After Greene and P. Cebula had been fanned by Briggle, who had succeeded Suder, Potts doubled to the flag on the left field line. L. McMath tripled to right, scoring Potts. C. Marshall immediately tripled to right, L. McMath counting. F. Marshall doubled to middle as C. Marshall finished. Heckathorne released a two-bagger on which F. Marshall finished. M. INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

The reason I have always discouraged the idea of letting the wrists break the clubhead directly back from the ball is because this action invariably leads the player nto too much wrist action and gets his clubhead too far ahead of himself in the back swing. That is, the clubhead is up to the top before anything else happens at all. This increases the difficulty of timing the swing and of maintaining rhythm. It is a little more difficult to learn the knack of keeping hands and clubhead about even in the earlier part of the back swing, but once the golfer has learned that he has something on which to develop. The clubhead, dragging along even with the hands, soon accustoms the player's fingers to feeling the weight of it, whereas with fast wrist action in the back swing the clubhead weight is never sensed. Try keeping it even and, to do so, determine to be a little slower in the first half of the back swing.

now . . watch my smoke!

I'M STARTING the day right—with my jimmy-pipe and a load of Prince Albert. Bring on your work. Heap it up. We three are going to wade through it like a trick dog going through a paper hoop. Me and the pipe and Prince Albert—we can lick any job . . . like that!

No fooling, Men, P. A. is a grand little pal. It knocks trouble out in the very first round. It smooths out the wrinkles and paints a beautiful sunburst on the darkest cloud. No wonder they call P. A. the National Joy Smoke! It sure is great tobacco.

Prince Albert is as cool and refreshing as the morning plunge. Sweet as a peach, sun-cooked on the tree. Fragrant as a bridal bouquet. I like the way it treats my tongue and throat too. Never a regret, never a protest, no matter how hard I hit it up, morning to midnight.

You may think you're all set on the matter of smokes. I want to say right here and now that unless you have signed on with Prince Albert, you've been missing the treat of your young life. Get yourself a tidy red tin of this wonderful tobacco and see. That's a tip!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Bee and Lou are modern girls sharing a Greenwich Village apartment. Bee is an actress, at present in the chrus, but keeping a stiff upper lip and a fond hope of success. Into the Village comes Delia, frail poetess of New England, seeking freedom from the repressions of her home. And Bee, a school chum of the freedom-seeker, invites her to share their apartment. Delia is determined to win through to the freedom she came for. Before the first evening is well under way Delia has met Wilbur, a young artist who is suffering from "too much mother" and whom Lou has undertaken to rescue; and Leslie, intimate of Lou; and Arthur Rockwell the poet whose work Delia knows and admires; and various others of the Village crowd. There is a gay party in the little apartment. As the festivities break up Leslie, frankly in love with Lou, protests on her putting Wilbur up at her apartment. She holds to her decision to keep the young artist under guard. During a conversation with the other two, next morning, Delia learns that Arthur, who has taken a liking to her, is unscrupulous. Yet she persist in yielding to his fascinations.

Bee, meanwhile, meets Fred, a young and successful business man who has been urging her to marry him. He fairly pleads with her, but she has her own ideas about marriage which do not conform to Fred's.

"I'm going to kiss you," he said.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN.

Bee's eyes filled. She laid an impulsive hand on his. "Fred, I am trying to be honest. I'm fond of you. There isn't anybody else. But I just can't see this your way. If I ever do give myself—"

"Oh, you will!"

"I may. Probably. One of these days. But when I do, it will be because I've found a man who can take me as a comrade. A man I can work side by side with."

He laughed shortly, then looked straight into her eyes and shook his head. "How in thunder do you know what you'll do, when and if?" said he. "Why bless your heart, Bee, the trouble with you is you've completely lost your sense of humor! Look here: I want you, and I'd take you on any terms. Any at all! If you wont marry, if you don't care for homes and suburbs and the family thing, how about—like Lou and Leslie Perkins?"

"Oh, no, Fred! No! I wont do that! I couldn't. Lou and I are two very different girls. Come, Fred; I really haven't another minute!"

"All right. There'll be a taxi at the door. I've already ordered it."

"You're always thoughtful, Fred." She was a little afraid of that taxi.

And she had reason to be. He took her deliberately in his arms. She struggled, but was helpless. With a strong hand he tipped the little round face up to his. "Don't be afraid Bee. You're in no real danger. But you've set me thinking. I'm going to kiss you—"

"No."

"—in a minute, after I've said what I'm going to say—"

"It wont be me!"

"Oh yes, it will! You and me. Us! Listen: I'm not going to be chivalrous any longer. That's all foolishness. I don't think I'm the type. Too headlong. From now on I'm going to put up a real fight for you. Keep right after you every day. As I said, I'd take you on any terms, Bee. The best terms I could get. But what I want is marriage, home, children—complete. It's plain I can make money enough. Listen Bee, I'm a success, I tell you! Will you marry me?"

"Please let me go!"

"Will you marry me?"

"Fred, the blunt truth is, you're not thrilling me at all."

"That's not the truth. That's a lie. Will you marry me?"

"No."

"All right." He was looking straight into her eyes. "I'm going to kiss you—"

"No."

"Listen to me! Oh, it's no good dodging—"

"Of course, you're stronger than I am—muscle—"

"Exactly. Muscles. I'm using 'em."

"It isn't fair."

"Why isn't it? I'm not asking favors now. I'm declaring war. I love you, or whatever it is. Certainly I want you. I want you so much that my life's a mess. Everything's in the air. I'm through waiting around and being good. I'm going to put up a fight now. You'll hear from me. There wont a day pass. Letters and flowers and everything. If you refuse to see me, at least you can't stop my reminding you that I'm crazy about you. I'm going to lay siege, mine and sap, bomb you from the air, with the postman's help—everything. Keep it up until you surrender. And you will surrender."

"No."

"Oh, to somebody. And it may as well be me."

"To nobody, Fred. Surrendering is precisely what I won't do."

"That's all rot. You're a girl. And the business of a girl is to become a woman. Oh, I know all about this modern stuff. Independence—competing with men. Oh, yes! But it's bunk. Childishness. The man roams and fights. The woman bears children and gives the best in her to rearing them—unless the race is going plumb to pot, that is. So why not admit the truth, first as last. Put your heart and back into the real job. You see Bee, I'm foot-loose and I don't like it. It isn't good for me. I want to be harnessed. I want somebody to fight for. I'm just a plain—"

"Fred let me go!"

"No." She struggled, but he caught her chin again in his bony, strong hand, pulled it upward, and firmly pressed a kiss on her mouth. "There! Can you tell me you're not thrilled now?"

She drew away and looked straight at him. Her color was high, her eyes flashing.

"Haven't I gained a little ground, Bee?"

"You've lost ground."

He caught her shoulders and shook her. "You know you're lying, Bee. I'm coming around after the show. Be waiting for you."

The taxi stopped. Here was Sheridan Square, and the red-brick theater, and the first groups of the evening crowd moving along the sidewalk. She wrenched her shoulders from his grasp, slipped like an agile boy out of the cab, and darted into the passage that led to the stage entrance. Two short words came snapping over her shoulder. They sounded like: "You needn't!"

"Where to, sir?"

Slowly Fred's eyes came to a focus on the chauffeur, standing there on the curb, holding the door open.

"I don't know Bill. Hell, I guess."

The man bent down to look at something on the step, then picked it up. It was a crushed bouquet of orchids. He didn't smile.

"I'll take it," Fred remarked shortly. "Go along."

The man slammed the door, climbed to his seat, then turned his head. "I didn't quite get that address sir," he said.

"Oh—uptown!"

Haskin's Letter

when and where he has the best chance of finding a job.

The central office and the seven permanent branches do not send many men direct to jobs. They usually tell the man, in person or by mail, where a branch office is operating and when it probably can place him. The permanent branch offices are at 806 Taylor street, Forth Worth, and City Market building, San Antonio, in Texas; 1923 Eighteenth street, Denver, Colo., Fourth floor, City Hall, Sioux City, Iowa; City Hall, Sioux Falls, South Dakota; 602 Northern Pacific avenue, Fargo, North Dakota; and Federal building, Spokane, Washington.

Towns which have branch offices at seasonal times include Amarillo and Plainview in Texas; Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Muskogee, and Enid in Oklahoma; Wichita, Hutchinson, Salina, Parsons, and Topeka in Kansas; Omaha and Lincoln in Nebraska; Mitchell and Huron in South Dakota; Grand Forks, Devils Lake, and Bismarck in North Dakota; Minneapolis and St. Paul in Minnesota; Bainville, Lewiston, and Great Falls in Montana; Pocatello in Idaho; Portland, Salem, Medford, and The Dalles in Oregon; Walla Walla, Colfax, Yakima, and Seattle in Washington. Others are selected as the demand indicates need for an office.

In Chicago there is a federal state office combined at 116 North Dearborn street, in St. Louis at 1405 Chestnut street, and in Little Rock at 106 Center street. These offices are a good distance from the harvest sections, but help with information to thousands of harvest laborers passing through those cities, and guide men in the right direction to the nearest job then available.

Time Element Important.

Fortunately for the workers and the farmers, the biggest wheat growing State, Kansas, harvested its crop earlier than the northern areas, and the usual army of about 40,000 itinerant workers needed in that state can later scatter into Nebraska, the Dakotas, Iowa, and Minnesota. The Montana cutting comes still later, usually in August. The Inland Empire area between the Rocky Mountains and the Cascades in Idaho, Oregon, and Washington, attracts a few of the more venturesome workers who have harvested earlier in Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas, but most of its forces come from the west coast.

Most of the wheat-belt states have other crops which call for seasonal labor, and the oat, rye, barley, and hay fields offer jobs, some before and some after the wheat crop. Threshing in many sections is a separate job from harvesting. Corn husking, potato digging, and fruit picking call for help late into the summer or early fall, and the agricultural army does not break up all at once when the wheat is cut. In every bunk house from the Mississippi to the Pacific Ocean there is talk of the next job to which men are moving.

The harvesting army has been mobilizing steadily since early June, and after July 4 has its ranks pretty well filled and the northward march going steadily forward. The government field employment offices move ahead the outposts and information sources for this army, while the central offices keeps the divisions informed of conditions as the attack on the wheat fields progresses. The chief clearing house is the Kansas City office, to which the department of labor urges that inquiries be directed.

New Gland Treatment Discovered

By a new discovery the vital gland substance may now be supplied in tablet form. This method of treatment is highly recommended by European and American scientists who have proved that the internal administration of gland extract has a very marked effect upon the corresponding glands of the human body, often reawakening them to normal activity.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, which is prepared in convenient tablet form, for men and for women, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic. Mathew's Med. store will supply you.
